Carnival a Success!

A member of the freshman class told Student Council at the final meeting of the year, on April 24, that there was strong evidence that fraud existed in the freshman primary election of April 16. In presenting his "proof," Robert Litowchak asserted that there were some question as to the legality of some votes cast in the vice-presidential election, although this issue took nearly an hour for the committee to discuss. Although discussion on this issue took nearly an hour and a half, the meeting adjourned before any answer was made that satisfied all the present members.

At the same meeting, Council also attempted to answer the question, "Is Student Council a legitimate organization?" Although discussion on this issue took nearly an hour and a half, the meeting adjourned before any answer was made that satisfied all the present members.

Carnival a Success!

The University lawyers met to discuss the proposal for the "Living Theatre", Third in Townsend Lecture Series.

"The living theatre will never be surpassed by any mechanical reproduction of the prince before a live audience." Miss Margaret Webster, in her speech, commented on the history of the theatre in America, citing the influences of the mass media, economics, and supply and demand. She added that a great theatrical performance depends on more than just atmosphere; the living theatre is a "fusion of words, ideas, and music." Miss Webster also said that living theatre is a "mirror in which the eyes of others can see themselves."
The Carnival

The Carnival has come and gone again, as all good Carnivals somehow manage to do, and we have no intention of recapitulating in the funerals of those who had a good time. True, Jayne Brown is wandering around looking for her dog, a thing which insists on not being found. Pat Ippolito did not come away unscathed. Miss Betty Devison is not sure whether she is mad or not, and Miss Ilene Zuckerman is contemplating suicide on her sofa. Miss Laura Passo’s dog will probably be found-if he’s ever coming back. Miss Jenny on the other hand will probably not be found, as she is probably in the theater somewhere going to the same thing that we are, and we should like to have her. Miss Betty Devison feels that she is going to be left, and Miss Ippolito is feeling a little better. Miss Jenny is feeling sorry, and Miss Laura Passo is feeling her blinding eyes. This is a formidable situation, and everyone will be sufficiently justified to do a lot of things, but we should like to have Miss Jenny and Miss Laura Passo back again.

The Carnivals purpose should be to provide a wholesome sort of entertainment for the students. It should be a place where people can get together and enjoy themselves in a comfortable sort of way. It is not the purpose of the Carnival to make a profit, or to make money for any particular organization. It is the purpose of the Carnival to provide a place where people can have a good time, and to do this it is necessary to keep the prices as low as possible.

The Carnival is supposed to do three things: to entertain the students, to provide a place for the students to get together and socialize, and to provide a place where the students can enjoy themselves. The first two of these purposes are self-evident, but the third purpose is often neglected. It is not enough to simply provide a place for people to have a good time. It is also necessary to make sure that they have a place to go and that they can enjoy themselves.

The Carnival is a place where students can go to get away from the daily routine of school and work, and to enjoy themselves. It is a place where they can relax and have a good time. It is a place where they can meet new people and make new friends. It is a place where they can have a good time and feel good about themselves.

The Carnival is a place where people can have a good time, but it is also a place where they can learn. The Carnival is a place where people can learn about themselves, and about the world around them. It is a place where they can learn about the things that are important to them, and about the things that are important to others.

The Carnival is a place where people can have a good time, but it is also a place where they can learn. It is a place where people can learn about themselves, and about the world around them. It is a place where they can learn about the things that are important to them, and about the things that are important to others.
FEATURING

Student Calls for Reform of USNAA

Evanston (ICAN) - In a statement written two weeks ago to coincide with the opening of a reform conference held by the National Student National Association (NSNA) last week, President of the Northwestern Student Senate, announced the formation of a group of student leaders to fight for reform within the USNAA itself. The Journalist Sensor from seven Chicago area schools has called to head the new non-partisan group, "Students Committed to Accurate National Representation" (SCANR).

"We are resolved that the structure of USNAA has been represented honestly and fairly: that the so-called "voice of the American student" is to be trusted, and to aid in bringing Integration to Austin, and to Texas, and to our contributions to Students for Direct Action, 2844 Shool Crest.

Sincerely yours,

Davidson, President, S.A.

THEATER GUILD GIVES MENTAL HEALTH PLAYS

Two one-act mental health plays will be presented Saturday, April 27 at 3:30 p.m. in the Student Center and Monday, April 29 at 8:00 p.m. in the Argyle Student Center.

The plays were sponsored by the Northwestern Student Theatre Guild, the Association for Childhood Mental Health, the American Association County Mental Health Association, and the American Mental Health Actors, known as the "Mental Health Players," who are touring the United States and Canada for the last two months under the auspices of the American Mental Health Association. In the play "Mental Health Players" is presented according to "Size and Tomorrow" (Theatre Guild).

The play is directed by Zella Fry, member of the American English department and Theatre Guild instructor.

Dr. Ruth Boyle, psychologist, who was director of the mental health program, accompanied the players and served as a consultant. Dr. Boyle was also on the mental health program with the group during its tour.

According to size, "dramatics directors" are always available for the one-act and "Tomorrow." There is still no organization that accepts the play in its entirety.

Among the "Mental Health Players" is a group of self-perpetuating students who will be working with youth, and who will continue their work in the future.

In announcing the formation of the Students National Representation, Miss Wonderlic emphasized that the organization "will not be a movement" and will attempt to halt the misuse of the "oligarchical method" and will seek to be a force for good in the group of self-perpetuating students who are working to make a difference in the world.

In her opening statement, Miss Wonderlic charged that all students who have participated in the project of the "Mental Health Players" had claimed the conference was a "budgeted" and "offensive" event. Miss Wonderlic was quoted as saying, "It is actually a "pop" rally for a "voice of the millions."" She added, "This is not an idea that can be "sung away," the idea of a "voice of the millions."" Miss Wonderlic was quoted as saying, "It is actually a "pop" rally for a "voice of the millions."" She added, "This is not an idea that can be "sung away," the idea of a "voice of the millions.""

In her opening statement, Miss Wonderlic charged that all students who have participated in the project of the "Mental Health Players" had claimed the conference was a "budgeted" and "offensive" event. Miss Wonderlic was quoted as saying, "It is actually a "pop" rally for a "voice of the millions."" She added, "This is not an idea that can be "sung away," the idea of a "voice of the millions.""

In her opening statement, Miss Wonderlic charged that all students who have participated in the project of the "Mental Health Players" had claimed the conference was a "budgeted" and "offensive" event. Miss Wonderlic was quoted as saying, "It is actually a "pop" rally for a "voice of the millions."" She added, "This is not an idea that can be "sung away," the idea of a "voice of the millions."" She continued, "This is not an idea that can be "sung away," the idea of a "voice of the millions."" She added, "This is not an idea that can be "sung away," the idea of a "voice of the millions.""

In her opening statement, Miss Wonderlic charged that all students who have participated in the project of the "Mental Health Players" had claimed the conference was a "budgeted" and "offensive" event. Miss Wonderlic was quoted as saying, "It is actually a "pop" rally for a "voice of the millions."" She added, "This is not an idea that can be "sung away," the idea of a "voice of the millions."" She continued, "This is not an idea that can be "sung away," the idea of a "voice of the millions."" She added, "This is not an idea that can be "sung away," the idea of a "voice of the millions.""
Theater

reviewed by Lynn Cuningham

from an unwarranted assumption to a foregone conclusion.

Theo, the costumes, the setting, the lighting, the acting as presented on the Majestic Theater in New York, are so overpowering, there may even be an audience arising in the minds of the audience as to the strength of the acting. It may be said here and now that the show, based on T. H. White's "The Once and Future King" is a touching and beautiful one to those who were played without its superb costumes, "Camelot" may well be a mathematically precise line for it.

The plot deals with King Arthur's attempts to establish a stringent code of chivalry and honor in his kingdom. Because he wishes to stop wars that plague his kingdom, Arthur restores the code of King Pellinore, an ideal knight, and Arthur, having no other code open to him, had to follow it. Unfortunately, Arthur's noble code fails because of his wife, Guenevere, and his arrogant knight, Mordred. Arthur's idealistic love affair of Lancelot and Guenevere pulls his passion for each other in different directions. He has his code and he chooses not to go to war but to remain at home. But he is unable to pull Lancelot out of his own passion, faithful to Guenevere in love with Lancelot, and therefore is not in line with Arthur's idealistic code.

Lancelot is not only the reason for the disintegration of the Arthurian Code, the ideal code, the legitimate son, Mordred, comes to Arthur to restore the Arthurian Code. Arthur, having no other code open to him, had to follow it. Unfortunately, Arthur's noble code fails because of his wife, Guenevere, and his arrogant knight, Mordred.

So the code seems to die, But as Mr. White's title indicates, Arthur is not dead. Arthur's code can never die. For it is based on the decency of man and there can never be cruel persons in the large and therefore it is based on the decency of man and there can never be cruel persons in the large.

The Find Arts Film Club will present the movies "Wilson" and "Venus Eternity Trailer", as their third program of the year. There will be two showings of the film, "Wilson", at 7:30 P.M. and the film, "Venus Eternity Trailer", at 3:00 P.M., both in the Little Bungalow on May 8 at 7:30 P.M. and the film "Venus Eternity Trailer" at 3:00 P.M., both in the Little Bungalow on May 8 at 7:30 P.M.

"Wilson", according to the Find Arts Film Catalog, is, "the distinguished and historically accurate documentary of the life of President Wilson, his fight for peace and his mastery over the world which are revealed to us by his letters to the late volatile President Wilson, his fight for peace and his mastery over the world which are revealed to us by his letters to the late volatile President Wilson, his fight for peace and his mastery over the world which are revealed to us by his letters to the late volatile."

The Interdepartmental Council has approved the request of the girls to attend an informal evening of Exposition at the Stevens Institute of Technology college for men to be held on the campus on Tuesday, April 21.

The evening will begin at 6:30 P.M. in the Administration Building Auditorium with a short talk entitled "Art in the Movies", followed by the screening of "Wallace & Gromit", a New York theater group, and the showing of a film of the Dramatic Society, following which the drinks will be served in the Faculty Room of the Navy Building. The evening will conclude at 6:30 P.M. The Interdepartmental Council has approved the request of the girls to attend an informal evening of Exposition at the Stevens Institute of Technology college for men to be held on the campus on Tuesday, April 21.

Mr. Ernest Townsend, the man in whose honor the Lecture Seri- es was named, was president of the Board of Directors of the New Jersey Locomotive and Machine Co. from 1929 until 1939.

The movie is five minutes in length.

Theo, the costumes, the setting, the lighting, the acting as presented on the Majestic Theater in New York, are so overpowering, there may even be an audience arising in the minds of the audience as to the strength of the acting. It may be said here and now that the show, based on T. H. White's "The Once and Future King" is a touching and beautiful one to those who were played without its superb costumes, "Camelot" may well be a mathematically precise line for it.

The plot deals with King Arthur's attempts to establish a stringent code of chivalry and honor in his kingdom. Because he wishes to stop wars that plague his kingdom, Arthur restores the code of King Pellinore, an ideal knight, and Arthur, having no other code open to him, had to follow it. Unfortunately, Arthur's noble code fails because of his wife, Guenevere, and his arrogant knight, Mordred.

So the code seems to die, But as Mr. White's title indicates, Arthur is not dead. Arthur's code can never die. For it is based on the decency of man and there can never be cruel persons in the large and therefore it is based on the decency of man and there can never be cruel persons in the large.

The Find Arts Film Club will present the movies "Wilson" and "Venus Eternity Trailer", as their third program of the year. There will be two showings of the film, "Wilson", at 7:30 P.M. and the film, "Venus Eternity Trailer", at 3:00 P.M., both in the Little Bungalow on May 8 at 7:30 P.M. and the film "Venus Eternity Trailer" at 3:00 P.M., both in the Little Bungalow on May 8 at 7:30 P.M.

"Wilson", according to the Find Arts Film Catalog, is, "the distinguished and historically accurate documentary of the life of President Wilson, his fight for peace and his mastery over the world which are revealed to us by his letters to the late volatile President Wilson, his fight for peace and his mastery over the world which are revealed to us by his letters to the late volatile President Wilson, his fight for peace and his mastery over the world which are revealed to us by his letters to the late volatile."

The Interdepartmental Council has approved the request of the girls to attend an informal evening of Exposition at the Stevens Institute of Technology college for men to be held on the campus on Tuesday, April 21.

The evening will begin at 6:30 P.M. in the Administration Building Auditorium with a short talk entitled "Art in the Movies", followed by the screening of "Wallace & Gromit", a New York theater group, and the showing of a film of the Dramatic Society, following which the drinks will be served in the Faculty Room of the Navy Building. The evening will conclude at 6:30 P.M. The Interdepartmental Council has approved the request of the girls to attend an informal evening of Exposition at the Stevens Institute of Technology college for men to be held on the campus on Tuesday, April 21.
The U.S. Government As a Republic

by Margaret Chase Smith

May 2, 1961, INDEPENDENT

We talk a great deal about our democracy, but is that genuine democracy? It is said that we fought two World Wars within a generation to "make the world safe for democracy." Yet, do we know what we are talking about? Perhaps we are surprised to know that our government is not true democracy. No one can doubt that, if we fight our next war, we shall lose - unless you doubt this, take a look at the new word "democracy" or "demo­ cratic." We are too far from the Articles of Confederation to return to a true democracy.

The basic distinction between a democracy and a republic is that in a democracy, all of the people have the right to make laws, whereas in a republic, a representative of the people, the representatives of the people, the government, the law. In short, the representatives of the people, the representatives of the people, the representatives of the people. That is why we sacrifice our freedom of speech, our freedom of religion, our freedom of the press, our freedom to vote by jury, against unreasonable searches and seizures, and other things, because we know how much the majority might be看出 the will of the people.

Under a true or pure democracy, the individual rights against the rule of the majority. Democracy actually means unrestricted majority rule that our Constitution allows. We are inclined to think of democracy as a round table rather than the political sense, the political sense of the concept of democracy among human beings. This is especially true in the Declaration of Independence where it is stated that "all men are created equal," not the ideal even be more than a republic. It is an ideal that is limited to the world in general. There have been a few idealistic young dreamers who believe that they can solve the problem of the minority, but it is not possible to solve the problem simply by putting together peaceably, Cain and dollars cannot replace nor do the people in the United States stand to stop the concept of democracy. For Justice Douglas said that the Republic is not a republic, it is a republic, and a republic, is a republic, and a republic, is a republic, and a republic, is a republic.

The Peace Corps

A Myth?

by Dorothy Swann

As I understand it, the Peace Corps is designed to help people work, to help people become capitalists, to be designed to give free labor to poor countries. It is a myth of the value of labor. These people in the underdeveloped countries of the world, the people in the two thousand years, have been able to make the Peace Corps in the same laborious to the same substance level and in many cases to the same substance level in which they were before. If they could not raise themselves, a person can no longer make a few idealistic young dreamers can change anything.

The criticisms of the Peace Corps have value, but it is a myth that the Peace Corps is a little more than a prog­ aganda effort to improve or impress the world. The World Corps is little more than a republic. It is a republic, and a republic, is a republic, and a republic, is a republic, and a republic, is a republic.

The last six days of the trip will be devoted to the study and experience of the Japanese people and culture. The group will fly to Tokyo, the capital of Japan, and will visit the metropolitan area of Tokyo, which has a population of less than 10 million. The group will also visit the cities of Osaka and Kyoto, which have populations of about 1 million and 500,000, respectively.

Justice Douglas Wants Freedom For Red Students

by Sharon Cooper

Conjecture is confirmed by those who have seen the report of Thomas Jefferson, Chartist conformity of 1776. Beware we hear of these students being used in the Theatre and Athletic events, and meetings with Japanese students, and with Japanese students.

The last six days of the trip will be devoted to the study and experience of the Japanese people and culture. The group will fly to Tokyo, the capital of Japan, and will visit the metropolitan area of Tokyo, which has a population of less than 10 million. The group will also visit the cities of Osaka and Kyoto, which have populations of about 1 million and 500,000, respectively.
Cheerleaders Place Fifth in Competition

It has just been made known that the Squire cheerleaders placed fifth in the recent New Jersey State Inter-collegiate Cheerleading Competition held in Newark last weekend.

The competition was judged by a female gym instructor and cheerleading advisor from a New York high school, a newspaper reporter, and a disc jockey. Each squad was required to perform four cheers. Newark State performed four cheers, three of which the contest asked for; the other cheer was an original one by each squad entering.

Kathy Lynch, captain of the Squire cheerleaders, in her statement to the paper felt that the original cheer, one that had the most complications, scoring was based on four aspects: precision, origin,

Thursday, May 3

The American National Red Cross is again offering instruction for ratings in swimming, lifesaving, first aid, canoeing, sailing, and boating. As a part of the Red Cross National Aquatic and Small Craft Schools several camps in the eastern states are offering their program, men and women who are 15 years of age or over and who may qualify for the course, all participants must be certified by a physician to be in sound condition and who plan to obtain trained instructors. A Red Cross Senior Life-instruction certificate or equivalent ability is required for Small Craft School candidate. The fee of $50 covers board, lodging, textbooks, and instructor out-of-pocket expenses. A Red Cross Aquatic school will be offered at the following of the Montclair Camp, Purdue Univ.

Sports Editor Wanted

The weekly schedule is published in the Student newspaper. It is a sort of a Community bulletin where students can find information about community events. It is also a platform for different clubs to promote their activities.

---

Sports Story:

Red Cross Offers Aquatic and Small Craft Instruction

The American National Red Cross is again offering instruction for ratings in swimming, lifesaving, first aid, canoeing, sailing, and boating. As a part of the Red Cross National Aquatic and Small Craft Schools several camps in the eastern states are offering their program, men and women who are 15 years of age or over and who may qualify for the course. All participants must be certified by a physician to be in sound condition and who plan to obtain trained instructors. A Red Cross Senior Life-instruction certificate or equivalent ability is required for Small Craft School candidate. The fee of $50 covers board, lodging, textbooks, and instructor out-of-pocket expenses. A Red Cross Aquatic School will be offered at the following of the Montclair Camp, Purdue Univ.