Teachers Meet In 85th Annual Convention

Educators to Speak

The eighty-fifth Annual Convention of the New Jersey Education Association opened this morning under the presidency of Hon. James H. Sollitt, distinguished ex-German statesman, who will speak on "Democracy, Its Meanings," Major Fielding Elliott will answer on the program with "The National Scene" as his theme. Dr. Ruth Alexander, one of the most popular women speakers in the country, will appear on the program with Major Elliott.

On Friday morning, Dr. William G. Carr, secretary of the Education Commission, and Dr. Francis T. Spalding will discuss the planning of Democratic Education.

The New Jersey Association of Teachers of English will meet. Besides an address on "Our American Street," poet and lecturer, on "America Seen Through the Poet's Eye," the program includes "An Appeal to the Freshman" by Mary Ellen Johnson, "A News-Suit Story," and "Misers' Day." Mrs. Jane G. Plenty, Mrs. Dorothy H. Lawrence, and Mrs. Dorothy H. Lawrence from the Essex County Teachers' College, will-hand lead the discussion of representatives of the American Legion, New Jersey State Federation of Labor, New Jersey State Federation of Women's Clubs, and the New Jersey College for Teachers, Inc.

This year, the annual banquet and dance of the New Jersey Association of Teachers will be held at the Traymore Hotel. The speaker will be Mr. James McDermott, president of the State Teachers' Association.

Mr. Lawrence S. Chase, superintendent of schools in Essex County, and member of the part-time and extension faculty of this college, will speak at a meeting on Saturday morning on "The Place of Speech in the School Curriculum." Newark State Teachers' College Alumni Association will hold a reception tomorrow in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel at 4:30 P.M.

A Gentle Reminder

We have no reason to doubt that this item needs to you. However, to keep the record straight, and possibly save you a trip to school, here is the reminder: there will be no school tomorrow.

Diver To Speak This Wednesday

By Max Gene Nohl

A tropical diving expedition, explained by means of natural-color underwater motion pictures set to a musical background, will be the unusual program of the day. The presentation will be made by Mr. Max Gene Nohl, holder of the world's deep water diving record of 200 feet, on November 15 by Max Gene Nohl, holder of the world's deep water diving record of 200 feet. Mr. Nohl's diving experiences will be held in the self-contained helium diving suit. He will relate the experience of his seven months of diving and explore old wrecks.

Mr. Nohl has built such underwater equipment as the fourteen pound midget diving apparatus used in rescue work, a self-contained helmet and an underwater motion picture camera.

Mr. Nohl established a new record on December 1, 1937, when his body was under pressure of 190 pounds per square inch, more than three times the pressure of the atmosphere at the bottom of the ocean. It is estimated that in order to carry on the variations of student opinion, a two dollar fee per student at the end of the year will be required. In the 1940-41 season will have to be radically curtailed. Mr. Joseph B. D'Angelo called attention to the value of varsity sports in publicizing the Physical Education program.

Students and faculty members were invited to participate in the program. A joint committee composed of the Student Council and the Athletic Committee was formed to ascertain student opinion. The results of this committee were then referred to a joint committee composed of the Student Council and the Athletic Committee. The joint committee agreed to draw up a questionnaire to be distributed among the students. The committee made the claim that it was within their jurisdiction to implement the proposal. The Athletic Committee had the opportunity of informing the Executive Committee of the exact nature of their activities. They explained that in order to carry on the varsity activities organized last year for this season, their surplus will be required by the Budget Committee.

Kurt Weise Here For Book Week

The Library Council will give its Annual Book Week tea on Friday, November 17. This year Kurt Weise, illustrator and writer of 'Cyrano DeBergerac,' is the guest. Mr. Weise was born in 1897 in Mender, Germany. At the time he was old enough to take up a vocation, he elected, but a stern male parent decreed otherwise. So he went to Hamburg to learn the exporting business. After spending some time in Hamburg, he was sent to China, Lending in the middle of the Chinese box, so to speak, he came to the United States in 1914. During this time he traveled and sold merchandise. Almost all of the European war broke out and he was captured by the Japanese who handed him over to the Chinese. He was sent home to Austria where he remained a prisoner of war, and finally gave up in despair and decided to remain in China for the rest of his life. Mr. Weise now lives on a farm on the banks of the Danube. He is a man of remarkable talent, both as a writer and an artist. His work has been recognized and he has been awarded numerous prizes.

We Are Scopped!

Last month, the Reflector told of the exploits of a number of seniors who were planning to travel. We felt that the journey would be an adventure, and we acknowledged the challenges that awaited us. Now, in an embarrasing situation, we realize that the journey was nothing but a simple adventure. Our trip is not as thrilling as we originally thought.

We hope to travel the unexplored landscape, but due to the financial constraints and the challenges ahead, we are forced to forego the journey.

The Sophomore welcomed the newly formed Freshman team into intramural basketball competition. The Freshmen team had been formed, and it was expected that this would turn into a hotly contested meeting, as they have never participated in the intramural basketball before. The smoother play and teamwork of the Freshman team was too much for their opponents. Young, but possibly, the Freshmen team has the potential to improve. They have in their first game of competition proved a match for their older counterparts. It was a close game, and they should improve further. They were expected to stage a repetition of their first game, but added another win as the Juniors again conceded their game by forfeit.

The Marquess Guild has begun production of Rostand's gay comedy, a modern interpretation of Racine's play. It is to be given as an assembly program early next year. Since it is impossible to have many characters on the stage at one time in a play given with marionettes, the original list of twenty characters has been cut down by the rewrite committee. The same committee has also eliminated a number of lines in order to simplify the play. Work has begun on the scenery for the remaining scenes. Puppets are being made and painted. In keeping with the ro-casian aspects of the play, certain details of the setting will be of the French Court. Scenery will be subsidized in color and will be designed in a gay Clébert style of decoration for the marionettes.

Archers to Begin Practice

Chernow and Ambrose Corcoran from the Reflector, and James McDermott and Bernice Bingham from the Reflector, are helping in the planning. Mrs. Parker O. Griffith of the Town Hall of Essex County and the Greek Museum Foundation are the organizers of the Greek Festival.

As You Desire Us

Last month we presented you with a Reflector that was revolutionary in physical appearance. That issue was composed on a Varityper and reproduced on a photostat process. This month, another letter-press printed paper does not indicate a complete disapproval of last month's method. We realize the effort entailed in the production of a newspaper, and regret the growing importance of black and white lithography. However, as your opinion seemed to indicate a desire for a finished product, we made the change.

Are we right?

In Appreciation

To the Editor:

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the Senior Class for its splendid cooperation in the problem of portraits for the "Memorabilia." Never before, with our experience, have we had a photography schedule proceed so smoothly.

It is cooperation like this that produces an esprit de corps necessary for good workmanship. I feel that your cooperation has helped us in planning for an excellent yearbook.

Sincerely,

Charles Meyers, Jr.

Psychology Club Plans Five Major Topics for Discussion

T.B. or Not T.B.

By Clement Tetkowski

A hullo will occur in the intellec tual activities of the Psychology Club today when the annual recep tion party is held, Francis Bigley is chairman of this social event.

This year, the club will present on their program five major topics for lectures and discussions. This program includes the “Psychology of Propaganda,” the “Psychology of Great Thinkers,” the “Psychology of the Humor,” the “Psychology of the Bohemian,” and the “Psychology of the Love.” The time spent on each sub topic will be proportional to the club’s interest in it. Each topic has been assigned to a chairman who, with the aid of other club members, is responsible for gathering material on his subject. All these decisions were made by the club’s program committee headed by Robert McKenna.

The club has already heard two lectures on the “Psychology of Propaganda.” Mr. John Hutchinson in his lecture last Tuesday castigated the President’s statement that “the effort of an interested per tervention, and revealed that teaching is itself a good type. She also stated that it was what usually happens in time of war.

Miss Marcia Baldwin in her talk on the psychology of the “Psychology of the Humor” pointed to methods used to spread propaganda and revealed that teaching is itself a type of propaganda, but fortunately, a good type. She also stated that it was what usually happens in time of war.
