Student Experiment

Proves Successful

During the past year a growing need has been felt by several students for improved public relations. Their experiments have successfully proved the value of a strong lasting organization.

Encouraged and guided by Mr. O'Brien and Dr. Shee the committee has planned for local newspapers. With money supplied by the Student Council they have gathered stories and cartooned letters which are being mailed with selected papers. Every Tuesday for the past seven weeks a letter has gone out. Personal contacts have been made in some locales.

At present, official recognition, complete organization and plans for the new year are keeping all members active.

Omicron Chapter of Epsilon Pi Tau was the first national Greek letter fraternity at Newark State Teachers College. Poetic Beliefs

Mr. Coffin's avocations are writing, story-telling, gardening and fishing. He often draws the jacket designs for his own books. It is interesting to know that most of his work is done late at night when "his children and neighbors are quiet."

Mr. Coffin believes that "poetry can be an art of enjoyment as it was in ancient times." Many best-known poets have given poetry a bad name with their sense of intellectual superiority, their retreat into patterns of disintegration and their sense of weariness.

Among his favorite definitions of poetry are these: "Poetry is the art of making people feel good about living," and "A poem is saying the best one can say about life."

This modern American poet has been saying the best he could find to say about nature and life so that others might feel as useful about them as he does himself.

Some Juniors Are Practice Teaching Outside of Centers

This month the REFLECTOR is printing the names of those students who have taken advantage of the article on Junior practice in last month's issue of the newspaper, due to their Junior practice teaching (in the junior schools than the schools at Bloomfield, Millburn, Morris, Roselle and Union.

General Students

Miss Mary Matthews, General-Educational Junior, are practice teaching at the 18th Avenue School in East Orange, Miss Gertrude H. Santos, General-Educational, is at the Charter School in New Brunswick.

T. A. Students

Industrial Arts students under Mr. Fred Richardson's supervision at East Orange High School, also work at Bloomfield, Millburn, and Montclair.

Novel Addition To Music Department

A novel collection is being added to the music department this spring. The use of children's musical instruments is being introduced to the music-teaching program.

The Instruments are very simple and provide children with a series of times arranged in space in a consecutive order which they can visualize, manipulate, and so become familiar with the various aspects of the staff symbols. Among those which are being illustrated are "The Chromatic Song and Chime Bells," "The Great Whistle," "The xylophone," a "Tone Game," consisting of a series of metal strips, and a miniature instrument called "Melody Bells." Additions to the library of recordings, which numbers to 500 records and 50 albums of symphonies, symphonic poems, concertos, sonatas and string quartets, is another feature of the music department. Some of the recordings which have especially aroused enthusiasm are "The Foundry," "Metropolitan Opera Guild," "Modern Music, Its Aim's The materials are the kind that can be used in the home or garage or small instrument for use in the home or garage.

Shifting Education Trends

The shifting trends in elementary education are causing adjustments from the remote areas of the earth both to the more immediate realm of the child's communal and natural surroundings. The educational setting is moving out from jungle land, Eskimo land, or the desert land of the remote areas. The dominant medium has been stable and used to make simple and direct adjustments to them in carrying on a modern program in elementary education.

Boy book on American Literature

Robert Coates has recently been acquired by the Beth Israel Hospital, New York, and the Columbia University library of poets.

Mr. Coates's latest publication is "Selected Poems," which brings together hundreds of poems from famous American poets. It is one of his most recent volumes. Its purpose is a manifestation of the poet's beliefs and convictions.

The charm of Mr. Coates's poetry lies in the simplicity of his subjects. "The Poet's Cottage," by Edward Larimore Duesen, has said, "It is a lovely country, country land, Egypt and American Indian Life."

Practicum duties have not curtailed the programs of the social organization of our school, despite the fact that a large part of their membership is comprised of Juniors. Some of the activities include:

- Pi Beta Sigma sorority held its spring formal dinner at the MclAbee Hotel, New York, April 10th. The affair was a "get-together" of all chapters of the sorority. Chapters included: Delta Xi, St. Louis; Delta Xi, New York; and Pearl Lindehain and Golda Wals.

- Sophomore class in American Literature discussed the seven-volume work, "Children's Play At Science Series" by E. V. Lynch, head of the science department.

- Bruce, contacting elementary school teachers and parents, provided simple and direct instructions to them in carrying on a modern program in elementary education.

"O'er hill and date—" our students and faculty have traveled those past two weeks. With spring in the air, the spirit of the gypsy infests us. A land and sea trip of 1,200 miles was experienced by Mr. Arnold Hess of the Industrial Arts Department, and Miss Marie Babler of the Science Department and Juniors Mario Marquet and Betty Sawyer, together with twenty extension students. The group traveled as far south as Charleston, South Carolina, being entertained on the way by mayors of towns, chambers of commerce and colleges.

In North Carolina the travelers were invited to a Southern Fried chicken dinner by the Elizabethtown City Teachers College. Exposed to historic points and plantations, they were traveled by a trip through the swamp and a dress parade at the Citidel, a private training school in Charleston. Here they met Postmaster Parish.

The trip home was on a Clyde Maltry Line Boat. Only one unhap¬ gpy day was experienced by the group. That was the day of sinlessness.

Kathleen James, kindergarden-prim¬ ary student, spent her holidays getting sand in her shoes at the sea¬ shore. Or rather, strolling along the golden sand of the Jersey coast. So a thing was moving, not only the sea, the sand, and the sky; but a nearby group of WPA workers as well. But all good things must come to an end, and now Kathleen is back with us.

When it comes to discovering unique and interesting ways to spend an Easter vacation, Mr. James Reier of the Science department was on standing. In fact, he was out standing in the wilds of North Jersey, looking for a woodland jumping mouse and an amphibian opuscum. If, by chance, you don't know what an amphibian opuscum is, we explain that it is a type of salamander very rarely found in New Jersey. Only three
