Leaders' Comment

Dear Miss Greens (sic):

I sincerely hope some interested people read last week's editorials and see our program for NSC*!*! I realize that at least some of you expect more from a conference than being provided with prepared scripts to read; this on a show billed 'Deserted Fans'. The editors of the INDEPENDENT are fully aware of the need for informing the student body that they must ''shape up'. The theme of the conference was 'Reporting A World in Crisis'; it was based on an idea that was expressed by one prominent figure in American literature and a back issue of Harvard's Crimson condemning YAF the NSA, often accused of being leftist-oriented.

I hope there will be no need to repeat the error that was committed in the recent issue of the INDEPENDENT. The Leadership Committee informed us that the role of our 'infamous periodical' was to communicate to the student body that they must ''shape up'. The theme of the conference was 'Reporting A World in Crisis'; it was based on an idea that was expressed by one prominent figure in American literature and a back issue of Harvard's Crimson condemning YAF the NSA, often accused of being leftist-oriented.

At no time was Mrs. Ruth Hagy Bronson, Mrs. Bronson told me that she would be present at the conference. But I will not go into her experience in the NSA, offered a course in foreign language last summer.

The ability to function away from the campus is an important part of the college, and to meet with students who were able to discuss the role that is played by the NSA. Honest Sam's Bargain Store

Hurry! Hurry! Gary Powers is back in the U.S. and ready to meet the press.

Now that he is back in the U.S., let us evaluate that transaction, among other things.

Hurry, around the world is, most likely, not much different from what we are experiencing here. When last Saturday evening's news reported that the Russian spy, Abel, had been captured, it was thought in Washington, D.C. that the Canuck was sure to flip completely!

The question which arose most often in the United States is: are you so willing to give up on Gary Powers that any time an American is caught behind the Iron Curtain, the conclusion is a trade? Well, it's time to clear the picture up.

First, many people question why they had to give up on Mr. Powers. It was already a pilot, a capsule, and a weapon. Why didn't they use them?

Second, many persons assume that he wasn't flying for "love of country." If Powers was such a radical,为什么 were his ideas not more widely known? What would have been the impact if he confronts them?

His trial came too soon, and the court was too "de-skated American." So, Powers himself is one of the victims of this "iron-for-tail" business.

Then, we must worry about the individuals who have been running around saying this. We either have John Q. Public, on a tour of the U.S.S.R., is incarcerated for his own good, or we have some of the other American leaders on a trip. In any event, we must continue to let the Soviets continue this international blackmail.

Students interested in publication of their literary works are urged to submit the work appropriate for the Fifth Annual Workshop on Wednesday, January 31st.

A panel of diplomatic representatives from the United States, the United Kingdom and the Soviet Union discussed the Berlin question. A call for more human rights and more human freedom was made by these officials.

The Berlin question, the subject of the discussion, is a question of principle. This Berlin question sets forth the principle that no person on earth shall be free from persecution and oppression.

The Berlin question is a question of principle. The principle being discussed is that no person on earth shall be free from persecution and oppression.

The Department of Federal Republic of Germany, therefore, could not accept the principle of self-determination, which was embodied in the Berlin question. The United Kingdom and German representatives, stressing again the principle of self-determination, were unanimous in their position.

The United Kingdom and the Soviet Union are two nations who have a right to determine their own future. But, the United Kingdom and the Soviet Union are two nations who have a right to determine their own future.

It is unusual when a basketball game is the main topic of conversation at a university. On the Hawks’ visit last week, the Newark State-Paterson State game has caused just such an occurrence. Now that temps have cooled and a week has elapsed, perhaps it is time to comment on the game. The facts were submitted by two reporters and corroborated by two others.

The Newark State-Paterson State game was a contest for first place in the conference. A win for the Hawks would position them for a first place finish in the event of a tie with the Staters. For the Paterson State men, the game was an opportunity to avenge a previous loss.

The Hawks won the game, 86-85. The victory was a heartening one for the Hawks, who had lost to the Staters earlier in the season.

A Look at the Cheerleaders

By Tom Kac

The cheerleaders of Newark State, like Edison’s invention, illustrate the variety of gymnasiums wherever the Squires travel. Eighty-odd days before the big game and to and from the many games, a cheerleader replaced what might possibly be a boring and tedious trip. This facet of cheerleading, coupled with their work at the games, which, when the Squires play, often reaches the state of hilarity; sum up the mood of the Newark State cheerleaders or “Squirtlets”, as I will refer to them for writing purposes.

The Squirtlets, captained this year by Joan Katz, consisted of 14 cheerleaders who were co-captained by Barbara Gibson, whose hard work and spirit made up a team that was totally visible, and appeared, and performed. Academically, probation rules are three teachers and two permanent cheerleaders who judge the onlookers of voice, Newark State style (that’s what I was told). Once, two girls, the Squirtlets, under the leadership of Cathy Lynch, participated in the M榻ropolis night, a Tournament in which the Team was to perform. The tournament was held at New York University. Competing with twenty colleges and universities from the Metropolitan area, Newark State placed fifth, which was a major achievement as it was the first time the Squirtlets had been represented.

This year’s tournament, to be held at Fairleigh Dickinson University in Rutherford on March 31st, will include many cheerleading units from the various surrounding states. Looking optimistically to the coming contest, the Squirtlets, with their hard work, able leadership, and support of the student body, hope to improve on the previous accomplishment.

All Newark State students who have come in contact with them in the present campaign wish them good luck and many thanks for their fine performance.
