Ohio State Hosts NSA Congress: Nation's Student Leaders Attend

Jane Plenty
To Be Feted

A dinner in honor of Mrs. Jane Plenty, retired manager of the bookstores, will be held Thursday evening, September 27, 1962, at 7:00 P.M. at Newark State. The Honor Dinner Committee is contacting all those people who were associated with Mrs. Plenty during her years at the college.

Mrs. Jane Plenty

The Committee is also preparing a book of notes written by the friends of Mrs. Plenty. This will be presented to her as a commemoration of the event. It is suggested that anyone who is unable to attend the testimonial submit a note to be included in the "Notes from Friends" book.

Attention at the dinner is not limited. The cost is $3.50, payable to the Student-Faculty Co-op.

Library Extends Hours

Dr. Joseph W. Rendell, Newark State librarian, has announced the extension of hours at the Nancy L. Thompson Library. As of last week the library hours will be: Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Saturdays, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. As in the past, the library will be closed Sundays and holidays.

Forty-nine top officers of student organizations on the conference committees were Angela DeMartino, member of the student planning committee, said the key words of the conference were awareness, responsibility, and understanding. (Why in there dishonesty, and understanding (Why inaccuracy)?

TC Consultants

Dr. Robert M. Amsden, professor of sociology at Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City, and four graduate students at Teachers College added as consultants for the conference. Miss Betsy Davidson, coordinator of student activities at NBC, was the advisor to the conference.

Residence Hall Opened

Mailboxes have been included for the residence hall.

Newark State's first Residence Hall greeted 150 residents Sunday, September 9. Located behind the College Center, the Residence Hall is a new aspect of the NBC community. Eugene G. Wilkins, President of the board, noted the completion of the hall and its opening.

Other Goals Announced

SEAC, sponsored by NSA, heard the effective dissemination of news throughout the student community. (SEAC) held on the campus of Ohio State University prior to the meeting of the National Student Congress, held on the campus of Ohio State University, Columbus, saw the birth of the United States Student Press Association (USSPA). Other Goals Announced

Non-affiliation Key

Supporters of the amendment stated that too many schools were not concerned with the way they felt that membership-necessitated full agreement with all official NSA policy statements. Of particular concern in this area were many Catholic colleges and universities. They have taken strong stands against Communism, and have voted vigorous support of the House Un-American Activities Committee. Official NSA policy has condemned both HUAC and the McCarran Act (the Internal Security Act of 1950, revised). It was felt that such an amendment released from an obligation to support all NSA policy statements, would be more likely to join the amendment.

Amendment Passed

Other opposing the Amendment urged that schools should support all policy statements. One student delegate stated that the solidarity of NSA would be weakened by the passage of such an amendment. "What sense does it make to form an organization that isn't united? This amendment will render the Association nothing more than a large organization of factions."
Semi - Annual Dilemma

Newark State in its present form is a relatively new college. The youth of this institution does not encourage the fostering and continuation of traditions as much as we would like. There is one tradition that has been maintained consistently every year, and that is the registration process.

The flaws of the registration process this year were manifold. The main one being the lack of adequate registration material, the lack of electives data prior to registration, and the absence of information on the part of the registration staff. We were left with the misconception that the registration material was distributed earlier, perhaps at the beginning of the summer, and that this was to be our guide to the registration process.

In addition to these mistakes, there were other problems encountered, but we were more of an individual nature and too numerous to mention at this time.

The latest protagonist of this yearly drama is Mr. Wesley P. Daniels. His position at the college is that of registrar, an occupational position. We feel that he, as an individual, is responsible for the registration process.

However, and yet sees the needs of the individual student. At Newark State, this ideal situation was not realized. A certain amount of efficiency was apparent, but as it was that this result was that each student was handled as an IBM card, sectioned into a major, and filed away till the next semester.

We realize that this is a very difficult operation and perfection is not what we are seeking. What we are seeking is a registration process that works. This semester, this was our worry, not was the case this year.

Intelligent Intrested

"Nothing is more important to the development of leaders than the intelligent interest and understanding of a problem. If there should be a large group of people in every country who could be interested in a problem, and the ideals but the methods by which to solve it should be put into actual effect. It is the voice of chemical college men and women to play a leading part in this work by organizing activity. In the behalf of the United Nations, the Collegiate Council feels that it is rendering a most valuable service to the United Nations."

In essence, this statement by Trygve Lie, the former Secretary General of the United Nations, clearly sets forth the principles of collegiate men and women in the exaltation of the existence of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations.

The Blow of the Register

In 1946, the Collegiate Council for the United Nations was established by a group of students who realized their responsibility for building international cooperation among students of colleges and universities. The United Nations is composed of more than 50 members and is striving to maintain peace and good will among all nations. The Council is the United States representation of the United Nations, and it is composed of representatives from every major college and university in the nation. The Council is concerned with international problems and works to coordinate the efforts of students at all levels of education.

Your voice is heard and your opinion counts in campus forums, in regional, national and international conferences, and at the United Nations Mission, and at the United Nations itself.

You have access to special information and analyses of current UN questions.

You can secure speakers, films, and discussion guides through the United Nations New York office and staff.

You meet and talk with students from the United States who are concerned about the public issues of our day, and try to make them familiar to your own beliefs.

The mission of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations is to make students of Newark State College aware of the college body to attend its meetings and take advantage of its opportunities.

The Parking Situation

"The Parking Situation" is a weekly column that focuses on the experiences and observations of a student living on campus. The column is written by a student and is intended to provide a more personal perspective on campus life.

In this week's column, the student discusses the frustration and inconvenience caused by the limited parking on campus. The student suggests that the university should provide better parking facilities and that students should be encouraged to carpool or use alternative transportation methods.

The student also expresses concern about the impact of vehicular transportation on the environment and the health of the surrounding community.

In conclusion, the student calls for a more comprehensive approach to parking on campus that takes into account the needs of students, faculty, and the surrounding community.

Ditto

"Ditto" is a column that appears in the independent that is written by students. The column provides a platform for students to express their opinions and ideas on various topics related to their experiences on campus.

In this issue of "Ditto," the student discusses the impact of the current student government and its policies on student life. The student raises concerns about the effectiveness of the student government in addressing student needs and the lack of representation for different student groups.

The student also highlights the importance of student involvement in decision-making processes and the need for a more inclusive and participatory approach to student governance.

In conclusion, the student calls for a more active and engaged student body that can work together to address the challenges facing the campus and make a positive impact on the student experience.

Miss Patricia Boyd

Miss Ann McIntyre

A New Abundance of Scotch
While wandering around the campus, you may have encountered a smiling, cheerful bundle of Scotch. Her uniform gives her away. This _bonnie lass _is Miss Ann McIntrye, Boarding Nurse of Newark State's Residence Hall.

Her vast experience lends the 'mother' image to an otherwise arid atmosphere. Born in Kirkintilloch, Dunbartonshire, Scotland, Miss Mc Intrye was graduated from a small nursing school. She came to Columbia Presbyterian Hospital, New York City, for graduate study. Upon completion of these studies, Miss Mc Intrye attended Wayne Hospital for Mothers and Babies and achieved a degree in Midwifery.

This happy-go-lucky adventuress joined the Army in 1940 and was assigned to P.O.W. camp in Algeria. She cared for over two hundred German, Yugoslavian, and Italian prisoners of war. In 1946, she returned to Scotland and remained her career in district nursing. During the next ten years, Miss Mc Intrye traveled to the Shetland Isles, Glasgow and then to Australia as a ship's (nursing sister.

She acquired a Bachelor of Arts in Sociology. Following graduation, Miss Boyd remained at USC and has expressed an interest in folk music. Her major hobby is going to school. "In a sense my main hobby is going to school," she stated that there are many mistakes the girls must learn in the American way of living, people friendly, helpful, and very much like to live in the United States. The family spent approximately two and a half years in this country, first in Baltimore and later in New York City. During this time, Miss Cruz attended American public school.

Irene M. Cruz

Miss Irene M. Cruz, a resident of Copacabana Beach, Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, is the latest addition to the foreign student body at Newark State. Miss Cruz will spend one year as a New State scholarship covering room, board, books, fee and tuition. While here, she will study a variety of courses at all levels. In general, they are her main area of interest, since this is her main area of interest, since this is her particular specialization. Miss Cruz's first contact with the United States came ten years ago. At that time, her father, Dr. Angelo Cruz, was awarded a grant from the Kellogg Foundation for study at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Maryland. The family spent approximately two and a half years in this country, first in Baltimore and later in New York City. During this time, Miss Cruz attended American public school.

Miss Cruz stated that in the beginning she was unable to speak a word of English. However, at the end of three months "some-thing clicked", and it was easy from there on.

As a result of her early exposure to English, Miss Cruz was certified two years ago to teach English. At present, she is a teaching assistant at Newark State University, where she is majoring in English. She was entering the second year of this program when she came to Newark State. The credits she gains here will not be counted toward her degree. Miss Cruz hopes to teach English at the high school level. If she goes on graduate work, it will be in linguistics.

When questioned as to social customs in Brazil, Miss Cruz stated that she has many misconceptions as to the strictness of Brazilian parents. Actually, couples do go on unchaperoned dates, but not as early as Americans. When young people are 13 or 14 or older, they go on unchaperoned dates, but not as early as Americans. When young people are 13 or 14 or older, they go on unchaperoned dates, but not as early as Americans.

Miss Cruz stated that she would like to live in the United States if she could also visit her family and friends in Brazil. The American way of life is very much further than is common in the United States, and she said she found the American people friendly, helpful, and very practical.

Peggie Maher
The first activity of the school year with a large group of freshmen is the "Welcome for Freshmen." We would like to thank the seniors and Seniors to come out to give the freshmen a great hello and let them know we are glad to have them with us.

The Inter-Square Gym will be set up for this sports social, the time is four thirty and new all we need to complete the picture are:

There will be fun and games and refreshments for all. Let’s start the year out with a bang. Join us Thursday. See you then.

The juniors will assume the role as guardians to the frosh. The sophomores will do the hazing. Sophomores who wish to initiate, or haze the frosh are obligated to wear their beanie’s from last year. Any sophomores can sum mon a frosh to senior court.

M.A.A. Schedules Activities

9. Freshmen are obligated to carry their books and do assorted favors if no such book is in their possession at all times.
10. Freshmen are obligated to learn their schedules. This information (also number, room number, hours) must be memorized.
11. All frosh are required to carry their books in shopping bags.
12. All freshmen girls are to wear their gym skates they purchased from the Physical Education Department for the three days of hazing.

What memories hazing buy hazing kits they will receive the oak tag and N.S.C pencil. They will also receive a receipt for their beanie’s. The beanie’s will be given out to the frosh to senior court Vinella; juniors John Conti and Jim Hynes. Sophomores Pete Mal low and Mike Porcello; and freshman Bill Kennedy.

Intermural basketball began on January 31. A total of 18 men in 9 teams participated. The seniors’ three floored teams; the classes each floored two. The shape of the competition was outlined in the first set of games. Senior I and Senior II both scored decisive victories over their opponent. Senior II ultimately won the championship, behind con siderable competion.

It is to seem to the pinng-tonga tables in the gymnasium, and collecting dust accordingly, could be transferred to the residence hall. But daily habits, to be sure, will be followed. The subject is relatively necessary. I believe, the campus dwellers happier and more content.
