Amendments to Student Body Constitution Drafted by Special Student Council Committee

(Story Below)

Amendments to the Constitution of the Student Organization have been drafted by a special committee. The Student Council approved these amendments by more than the necessary two-thirds vote at a special meeting on April 14, and the proposals will be submitted to the Student Organization on May 8.

The plans for the agenda of the May meeting were discussed at a regular meeting of Student Council on April 21. Included in the program will be the presentation of the amendments, nominations for President and Vice-President of Student Council, reports on the UN Model Assembly at Swarthmore, Pa., National Students' Organization (NSO), World Student Service Fund (WSSF), and Future Teachers of America (FTA).

In January 1946, members of the Student Council, realizing how ineffectual the present Constitution is, proposed that a committee be appointed to study the conditions and to make recommendations. The committee was comprised of Adelbert Berry, class presidents, one representative from each class level, Dr. Dougall, and Dr. Whiteman.

The final decision of the committee was to revise the entire Constitution. The revision would have to take the form of amendments. After these amendments are adopted by the Student Organization, the original Constitution is automatically made void.

On Monday, March 17, a smaller committee was formed from the larger group to begin drafting the statements. This committee consisted of Adelbert Berry, Raymond Hugg, Chester Ryan, Marion Schriek, and Alfred Spilatro. Mr. Downes was called in as adviser.

The amendments were completed before Easter vacation and were presented to the Student Council on Monday, April 14. The Council spent two hours determining the merits of the proposals. Article 6 provoked the most discussion. Several thought that the officers chosen for Student Council should be specified, and that they should be given the privilege to vote. However, it was made clear, this vote would destroy the proportionate representation.

Section 7 of Article 7 was the only amendment not adopted on that date. The Council voted to have the committee re-draft this Section. It appears in the "Reflector" in its revised form. All of the proposals are listed in this issue.

Editor's Note:

An interesting and well-written letter which explains why the Cafeteria is not opened earlier was submitted for publication in the Reflector. However, it was unsigned, and therefore cannot be used. In print, names will be withheld upon request, but we cannot publish a letter from an unknown source. The source of the Anonymous letter in the last issue was known. The entire staff is most anxious to have your contributions to the paper, but please remember that we must have signatures with them.

To the Reflector:

I feel the Model United Nations Conference at Swarthmore, Pa. gave the students of the Northeastern section of the United States a wonderful opportunity to air their views on international relations. It also enabled the future INTELLIGENTSIA of the United States to formulate concrete measures which will make the United Nations, not only the dream people tend to believe it to be, but a workable arrangement.

The people of the world will give their wholehearted support to this organization. They have the will to make the UN a functioning body that can cope with the ever-present necessity—a lasting peace.

In addition, I'd like to mention that through such conferences, it is hoped that our Administration will conclude that the scope of international relations is vital enough to incorporate it in our present curriculum. The Contemporary Civilization course could be extended for a full year.

Arnold Robbins,
Freshman

Most of us know that there is a Student Council, yet few of us realize how it functions. How many of us stop to analyze what, excluding ourselves, makes the Student Organization tick? Unwittingly or not, we have read the Constitution of the Student Organization in our so-called "Freshman Bible." This Constitution is the core of our activities.

In their present form, the principles of the Constitution are practically useless. They seem to complicate rather than to clarify procedures of the Council. Therefore, the Council recommended that action be taken. For concrete evidence, you can look at page 3.

The new procedure for selecting members for Student Council is more fair. Equal delegation becomes an actuality when section leaders instead ofclass presidents, class delegates, and club presidents are chosen for the Council. Under the present system, some groups are represented several times, while other groups have no voice.

The nomination of officers of Student Council, excluding the President and the Vice-President, and the selection of members for committees have been made more practicable. Officers and committees will be formed as the need arises. Membership shall not be limited to members of Student Council as it has sometimes been in the past.

The rest is up to you. The Student Council has laid the foundation in drafting these amendments. Some may be far from perfect, but, at least, we have a beginning. You can express your reactions at the May 8th Student Organization meeting.

New Curricula Provide for Additional Certification

The proposed curriculum for the College contains several innovations although in general it is an orderly growth of the former curriculum.

General education, which has occurred in the first two years in the old curriculum has now been distributed throughout the four years. The electives are being incorporated into the standard program for all students. These electives are given in sequences. Once a student selects a sequence, that is, a curriculum, the electives become fixed for him.

The new curriculum provides for certification in the former fields—industrial arts, fine arts, kindergarten-primary, and general elementary. In addition to these, it offers certification in general elementary with additional certification in one of the fields of the teaching of handicapped children. The three fields being offered are teaching of mentally-retarded classes, speech-correction classes, and hard-of-hearing classes. Two additional areas will be offered in conjunction with other institutions when the need justifies their inclusion. They are teaching of partially-seeing and teaching of the orthopedically handicapped. The junior practicum remains as an integral part of the teacher-training program followed by senior student teaching. For students electing the handicapped curriculum, the senior student teaching will include four weeks of teaching normal children and four weeks of teaching handicapped children. Student teaching in the senior year will carry eight semester hours rather than the six that we now allot to it.

Kappa Delta Pi Represented At Regional N.Y. Conference

Margaret Fehn, vice-president of Kappa Delta Pi, Delta Rho Chapter, and Evelyn Dougherty attended a regional meeting of that society at Cortland, New York on April 26. Delta Rho Chapter was one of the six chapters represented from New Jersey. Delegates from ten chapters in New York and five chapters from Pennsylvania were also present.

A biennial conference will be held next year for all the chapters throughout the United States.
Amendments to Students' Constitution Ratified at Special Council Meeting

PREAMBLE

In ordaining this Constitution for the Student Organization of the New Jersey State Teachers College at Newark its members recognize that there are limits to their authority in relation to the Administration of the College. It is, however, hereby declared to be the sense of the members of the Student Organization of New Jersey State Teachers College at Newark that within these limits they have freedom to participate in the management of their student affairs.

ARTICLE 1

This organization shall be known as the Student Organization of the New Jersey State Teachers College at Newark.

ARTICLE 2

The purpose of the Student Organization shall be to provide means whereby its members may participate in student affairs in accordance with the principles of American democracy and in cooperation with the Administration of the College.

ARTICLE 3

All matriculated students in the Resident Division of the New Jersey State Teachers College at Newark shall be members of the Student Organization. The members of the College faculty shall be honorary members, without vote.

ARTICLE 4

The officers of the Student Organization shall be a President and a Vice-President elected for a term of one academic year by the members of the Student Organization from among themselves.

Section 1

No person shall be President who, at the time of the election, is not eligible for membership in the senior class during the academic year for which he is elected. No person shall be Vice-President who, at the time of the election, is not eligible for membership in the junior class during the academic year for which he is elected.

Section 3

These officers shall be elected in accordance with procedures outlined in the By-Laws to this Constitution.

ARTICLE 5

The affairs of the Student Organization shall be administered by a Student Council which shall consist of the President and Vice-President of the Student Organization, and one representative of each official class section elected by the members of the section for the term of one academic year, in accordance with procedures outlined in the By-Laws of this Constitution.

ARTICLE 6

The President and Vice-President of the Student Organization shall be, ex-officio, President and Vice-President, respectively, of the Student Council. The Student Council may elect, to serve at its pleasure, other officers as it sees fit, from its own membership or the membership of the Student Organization. The duties of all these officers shall be those usually assigned to such officers.

ARTICLE 7

All powers vested in the Student Organization shall be exercised by the Student Council in behalf of the Student Organization.

Section 1

Decisions of the Student Council shall be by a majority vote of those present at an official meeting. A quorum for an official meeting of the Student Council shall consist of one-third of its membership.

Section 3

The Student Council may require reports from its officers and committees at its discretion.

Section 4

The Student Council shall meet at least once a month during the academic year with the possible exception of September and June. Special meetings may be called by the President or shall convene on demand of any three Student Council members or twenty-five members of the Student Organization.

Section 5

The Student Council shall appoint standing and temporary committees as need arises. Membership of standing committees shall not be limited to members of the Student Council.

Section 6

The President of the College, or person performing the duties of that office, and the dean of men and the dean of women, or persons performing these duties of that office shall act as advisers to the Student Council.

Section 7

Cooperation with the College Administration in the control of the student activities fund shall be a function of the Student Council. Allotment of funds to student organizations and supervision of their budgets shall be a function of the Student Council acting in conjunction with the advisers in the preceding section.

Section 8

Recognition of new student organizations shall be a function of the Student Council. Recognition may be applied for only after an organization has been in existence at least one academic year and has demonstrated that it exists for the promotion of an activity harmonious with the purposes of the College. An organization's application for recognition must be approved by its faculty sponsor and be accompanied by a copy of its Constitution.

Newark State Represents Costa Rica's Policy During Conference of Model UN Assembly

By Theodore Burdyl

The twentieth annual session of the Model General Assembly of the United Nations (formerly of the League of Nations) was held at Swarthmore College, Swarthmore, Pennsylvania on April 3, 4 and 5. Over forty colleges of the Middle Atlantic Division each sent four delegates and one faculty adviser.

Each college represented some one member country of the United Nations, and its delegates represented that country's viewpoint at the Model UN. Newark State Teachers College, one of three New Jersey schools invited, represented Costa Rica in the persons of Theodore Burdyl, chairman, Arnold Robbins, Elizabeth Kittner, and Pauline Orsulak. Miss Orsulak, an alternate, substituted for delegate Rae Movshow, who took ill shortly before the meeting. Miss Seager accompanied Newark State's contingent as the faculty adviser.

Diplomat Advises Delegation

On hand throughout the session for Newark State's Costa Rican delegation was Francisco de Paula Guitierrez, Jr., First Secretary to his father, the Honorable Ambassador to the United States from Costa Rica. The presence of Señor Guitierrez at several of the meetings of the Model UN, in addition to his informal chats with Newark State's delegates prior to each of their respective panel sessions, was of invaluable help. Señor Guitierrez, incidentally, was the only member of the official diplomatic corps accredited to the United States at Swarthmore.

On behalf of the Ambassador, who is also the UN delegate from Costa Rica, Señor Guitierrez presented to Newark State's delegation a large, beautiful white-bound book, containing an exact reproduction both of the original UN Charter in English, in Russian, in Chinese, and in Spanish, and of the signatories to the Charter. The authenticity of the Charter and signatories' exact reproductions are duly certified.

The authenticity of the Charter and signatories' exact reproductions are duly certified.

The last issue of the Reflector made detailed mention of the preparation which Newark State's group made for the Model UN. It was then inadvertently stated that Seton Hall College was among the other schools from New Jersey also attending. As it was, Princeton and Rutgers were the only other schools invited from the Garden State. (Seton Hall had been confused with Seton Hill of Pennsylvania.) Rutgers represented the U.S.S.R.; Princeton represented Ethiopia. The only other teachers' college invited, besides Newark State, was Shippenburg State Teachers College of Pennsylvania. The delegates from Shippenburg and Newark had several off-the-record meetings together, chatting informally about many things that their respective Teachers' Colleges had in common (and, yes, also the differences!)

Security Council Meeting Held

The opening sessions on April 3 consisted of a model Security Council, in which only the masquerading delegates of the present-member countries of that body participated. Following the mock Security Council meeting, the entire group divided itself into four panels or Commissions, with one of the four delegates from each country serving on a separate Commission from his fellow delegates: Commission I, Political and Security, Theodore Burdyl; Commission II, Economic and Financial, Arnold Robbins; Commission III, Social and Humanitarian, Pauline Orsulak; Commission IV, Atomic Energy and Disarmament, Elizabeth Kittner.

Since one delegate from every country was on each Commission, the four Commissions held meetings in the form of general assemblies, which met separately and simultaneously. Throughout the different Commission meetings, the faculty advisers and others came in and listened. The Commissions had their first meeting on the morning of April 4; their second, that same afternoon. The third and final panels were held Saturday morning, April 5.

A plenary session of all the Commissions and delegates was held in the afternoon of April 5, at which the various Commission reports were given and commented upon. The Adviser to the Model General Assembly, Walter A. Chudson, attached to the UN Secretariat in the Department of Economic Affairs, concluded the plenary session by giving a talk.

At the banquet, Arnold Wolters, Professor of International Relations at Yale University, spoke on "The International Control of Atomic Energy." During his address, Dr. Wolters stated that while sitting in on the Atomic Energy Commission of the Model UN, he was somewhat surprised to learn that some of the delegates were so well acquainted with the various, complicated phases of the atomic question. In citing a few of these delegates, he included "the young lady from Newark State Teachers College" (Elizabeth Kittner). Mrs. Kittner asked her father, who works in a company of which Chester Barnard is President, to contact the latter regarding the questions on the agenda of the Model UN's Atomic Energy Commission. Mr. Barnard is head of the U. S. National Atomic Energy Board and was very interested.

Sororities-Fraternities Hold Second Annual Formal

The Upper Montclair Women's Club will be the scene of several important affairs sponsored by the College during May. On Saturday, May 3, the Inter-Sorority and Fraternity Formal is scheduled. Ann Kaltenborn, sophomore, is in charge of arrangements. The decorations will consist of a replica of each of the sorority and fraternity emblems. The receiving line will include sorority and fraternity presidents and their faculty advisers. The bids are two dollars per couple, and all members of the sororities and fraternities are invited. Refreshments will be served and spotlight dances will be featured.

On Friday, May 16, the seniors will hold their prom at the Women's Club in Montclair. It will be a formal dance. Rita Ryan is the only senior of the Prom Committee who is still at school. Details of the dance are being formulated.

Friday night, April 18, was the night of the Sophomore Sport Dance. It was the first dance the school has had with a juke box for the musical accompaniment. Alfred Spilatro, class president, was in charge of all committees. Each section took over some duty. Section 5 decorated the gymnasium, Section 3 was in charge of entertainment, Sections 2 and 4 took care of the refreshments, and Section 1 furnished the records. Each member of the class contributed 25c toward the dance, since the class treasury had been donated as a memorial for Donald Walsh.

Ideas Exchanged About Practicum During Conference at College

A conference pertaining to junior practicum was held at the College yesterday afternoon. All of the cooperating teachers, principals, and supervisors who worked with the juniors were invited to attend. Junior students took charge of the classrooms.

The entire time was used for an informal conference and exchange of ideas among those present. Tea was served. Jean Potter poured the beverage, and Joan Meyerson assisted her. The floaters were seniors, Rita Ryan, Margaret Ryan, and Margaret Kingston; sophomores, Eleanor Walker, Beverly Grossman, and Doris Lewis; freshmen, Harriet Wadle, Audrey Powers, and Norma Testa. Men who assisted were James Williamson, John Wataha, Roy Daniels, and Benjamin Elliott.

Entrance Exams Indicate Large Fall Enrollment

Entrance examinations were given for 156 students on April 28. The examinations began at 8:45 A.M., and continued until 2:30 P.M.

Applying for entrance to the college were 26 industrial arts students, 24 fine art students, 29 kindergarten primary students, 89 general elementary students and 5 transferring students. Five students were enrolled for the liberal arts course.

The examinations will be machine-scored at Montclair State Teachers College.

All freshmen and seniors at the college were granted a holiday. However, sophomores enrolled in the kindergartens, primary and general elementary curricula visited practicum centers and observed the juniors teaching on that day.

Itinerants Face Homeward

By Valerie Schwartz

In most part of the world the major question is, "What do they do on a rainy night in Rio?" But here at Newark State more profound queries are thought about. We know what is done on tepid days in the Tudor Room. The important interrogation 'round these parts is, "Just when are those jubilant, joyful juniors returning?" Well, hold on to your hats, kiddies, for that Great Day is just around the week-end.

On May 5 the student body will once again be its complete and noisy self. No longer will the Tudor Room have that mausoleum-like atmosphere. (The library shall remain as quiet as ever; no true junior ever sets foot in there.) Even though the cafeteria line will be longer, we know you've missed us, and will be glad to have us back.

Norms Rehearses for Production Scheduled for End of May

Some things go along unnoticed; others, like Norms' productions, are never passed by. The selection for May 23 is the Moss Hart - George S. Kaufman, You Can't Take It With You. Seymour Farber, director, and Shirley Goldfarb, co-director, have begun work with Ruth Cohan, production manager. The cast has been announced and the property and scenery committees have started work on the settings.

Season Springs On Students

By Valerie Schwartz

The moon is high in the midnight heaven; its silvery glow shines down upon the grassy river bank; you sigh contentedly as you gaze into the cleft in the chin of Guy Madison. Just then a gal who passes herself off as a friend pokes you and says, "Wake up, Stupid. Class is over."

So you pull yourself out of the chair and kind of float downstairs and out to the sunken garden. All of a sudden you're down to earth with a thud (of your heart, that is). There he is, ex-GI Joe, your one and only (the "only" being that he doesn't know he's the one) and this time he looks like he might even speak to you!

"Hi," he says, and the sun shining on his silver "N" almost blinds you.

"Hi," you say, and you give it all you've got.

And as the setting sun sinks over the blossoming magnolia (you-all) trees on Fourth Avenue, we leave this charming (?) couple.

ZOO-logy at Newark State

By Evelyn Abramson

Balmy spring breezes wafted through the open windows in Mrs. Bartlett's room as I entered just a little before the rest of my class. Birds were twittering, bees were buzzing—BEES WERE BUZZING! One look told me all that I wanted to know and uttering a piercing scream, I fled.

Barbara Holck rushed to the rescue—the rest of Sophomore Section Four screaming behind her. "Bees—bees are loose—millions of them!" I gasped. As we shouted threateningly at the bees from outside of the door, Barbara rushed in and chased the four bees out of the window, shutting it firmly in their faces.

We speculated as to who was responsible for the bees' being in the room, and there could be but one answer—Mr. Bruce.

When we confronted him with our scattered gray hairs and raw nerves, he laughed innocently and tried to gush what seemed to us a subtle bit of flattery. "Why," said he, "you should congratulate yourselves—the poor bees were only searching for nectar. Can you blame them?"

We forgave Mr. Bruce.

Mr. Bruce assured me that although Gerald, the garter snake at first developed dark rings about his eyes from lack of sleep and was lonely and nervous during his first few weeks in room 21, he is no longer frightened or upset or even embarrassed at the sight of the students.

"Why no he playfully eats meal worms and earth worms out of one's hand as fast as one can feed them to him. He is really fat, that is, fat after a snake's fashion."

Mr. Bruce proudly showed me the culture of meal worms which he has raised since their infancy. The adorable little trillion-legged creatures have developed hard backs and Gerald no longer finds them appetizing. Frankly, neither do I!

Can you imagine a huge, hairy, wriggling creature with its pointed teeth exposed, being carried calmly into a classroom by Big Joe? My Physics class had that rare experience—thanks to Mr. Richardson. The "creature" was a wild possum, and he was very unhappy here, despite all of Mr. Richardson's efforts. He even refused to eat, so back he went to the Union County Park. Mr. Richardson, however, kept three other possums here very happy and healthy during the winter.

The moral of my story is: At Newark State BEE prepared for anything.

Remodeled Scoreboard

Features Automatic Timer

By Wilbur N. Nelson

Those of you who have attended our basketball games probably glanced at the score board several times during the game. Recently this board has been taken down and rebuilt by three members of the Senior Class. We now have an up-to-date score board having ratchet pawl release systems which are actuated by electric solenoids.

Currently under construction is an automatic timer which should keep accurate time to within one-fifth of a second and will set off signals as each period ends. This timer operates with tiny switches mounted on the hands of an electric clock. Large hands on the score board will tell spectators exactly how much time there is left to play.

The men responsible for these changes are Walter Flint, Harold Mills, and Walter Bittman. Both the scorekeepers and the fans are sure to appreciate the remodeled board.

The wedding of Jean Dawson, a senior enrolled in the Fine Arts curriculum, and Lester W. Hauck, both of Englewood, took place on Saturday, April 5, 1947. Mrs. Hauck has returned to her courses at the College.

Ardythe Silker, junior, who recently left school, was married to William Wright.

George and Gertrude Levine Orenberg, an alumna of Newark State Teachers College, became the proud parents of Robert Orenberg on Thursday, April 3.

In order to join his father, an Army Colonel, and his mother in Korea, John Lally, a sophomore, has left school for an indefinite period. He will remain there with his parents until their return, until then, he plans to attend the University of Shanghai.

The engagement of Ursula Drehsler, a senior enrolled in the General Elementary curriculum, to J. Lester Potts, Jr., of Union on April 6 has been announced.

During the Easter vacation, April 5 through 13, Doris Brodsky, a sophomore, looked to the West. In addition to weathering the Michigan floods, she managed to tour Chicago and Detroit quite thoroughly.

BURDYJ REPORTS ON ASSEMBLY

From the reports, all the Commission meetings were scenes of lively and interesting discussions and debates. In general, the accomplished results are well summed up in the various resolutions adopted by each of the Commissions. Some of the more important of these resolutions are as follows:

COMM. I—Recommends that the Security Council require from all members reports containing the following information in regard to the disposition of their respective military forces and equipment outside their national boundaries:

a. Number and location of troops in non-enemy territory.
b. Number and location of troops in ex-enemy territory.
c. Location and size of air and naval bases in ex-enemy territory.

COMM. II—Recommends the immediate adoption of the proposed charter for an International Trade Organization.

COMM. III—Recommends that whereas the Soviet Union and other members of the UN are not members of UNESCO; that the General Assembly urge all member nations to send delegates to UNESCO.

COMM. IV—Recommends that there be established by multi-lateral convention an authority for the control and development of atomic energy to be known as the International Atomic Development Authority. Decisions of the IADA shall be by majority vote.

Alumni Association Proceeds

Finance Proposed War Memorial

With the proceeds from a Spring bridge and dance at the College on Friday, May 2, the Alumni Association will begin work on a war memorial dedicated to the men of this College who were lost in World War II. Some of the proceeds will help finance other expenses of the Association.

Plans for the evening's entertainment include table and door prizes, a fashion show arranged by Mrs. D'Angelo, and music for dancing provided by Achilles D'Amico, an alumna, and his orchestra.

The association asks for your cooperation in making this a successful gathering.

Basically Speaking

By Evelyn Lazerwitz

Some people have always looked forward to going up in an airplane for the first time; others look forward to getting married in white satin; others can't wait for their first formal. I have always wanted to write a column entitled "Out of My Mind," the contents of which would include any stray thought that comes into my mind.

Who cares—here goes. Why do our veterans think that just because they're back in school, they can forget every nice and courteous gesture? Who do some of those gorgeous hunks of men belong to? I wonder how long it takes to cash your first paycheck. Why aren't there more chairs, tables, and cards in the Tudor Room? Why are some of the loudest complainers of the way things are done around here the people who refuse to volunteer for anything and refuse to work on any committees? Why do some girls get sily when they see boys? I guess they don't have any brothers.

The Tudor Room can be divided into four sections and named appropriately, "The Bridge Corner," "The Pinochle Corner," "The Casino Corner," and "The Blowhard Corner." I wonder who loses the most.

The Tudor Room can be divided into four sections and named appropriately, "The Bridge Corner," "The Pinochle Corner," "The Casino Corner," and "The Blowhard Corner." I wonder who loses the most.

Who owns the screeching voice that can be heard in the locker and Tudor rooms at odd times? Curb it, will you? Who's the comedian who delights in opening and/or misplacing the mail in the cubby holes in the basement.

Four years is a long time to spend in one place. Sometimes it seems like only forty minutes, and sometimes it seems like four hundred years. If the boys could only listen in on a conversation in the Locker Room, they'd be quite surprised to hear themselves being auctioned off.

My good friends call me preacher.

CONSTITUTION AMENDED

ARTICLE 8

Section 1

The Student Organization shall meet at least once each semester. In addition to such other matters as may properly be brought before these meetings, the Student Council shall report on its own activities.

Section 2

Special meetings of the Student Organization may be called by the Student Council or the President on one week's notice or shall be convened on demand of twenty-five members of the Student Organization.

ARTICLE 9

Section 1

Amendments to this Constitution shall be considered a part of it on ratification by a two-thirds vote of the Student Council and a three-fourths vote of the members of the Student Organization voting. One-third of the student body shall constitute a quorum for the purpose of acting on proposed amendments. Three weeks shall elapse between approval of an amendment by the Council and its submission to the Student Organization.

Section 2

Amendments may be proposed by any member of the Student Council or by petition to the Council signed by twenty-five members of the Student Organization. The Council must consider such petition at its next regular meeting and report to the petitioners the action taken.

Section 3

By-Laws to this Constitution may be changed by majority vote of the Student Council, provided that two weeks' notice of such intention shall have been given to the Student Organization.
Open Letter to Association Asks for Cooperation With Basketball Team

Dear Mr. President and Members,

If you have been reading the sports page of the two Newark newspapers during the month of March, you must have seen the various write-ups written about Essex County basketball teams concerning the distribution of letters and sweaters.

It's true that the court representatives of Newark State did not have a very successful season, but Jim Ogle, top notch sports columnist for the Newark Star Ledger counteracts this with the following:

"Newark Teachers travel to Bloomfield for a return tilt with the College and Seminary team. Neither outfit has enough to travel in fast company and when they get together it is the one time that both at least start with a possibility of winning. It is teams like that, however, to whom we like to doff the chapeau every now and then. They really play the game because they like it, not to win glory, headlines, or scholarships."

Mr. Ogle doesn't know about the various home court handicaps (or should I say dangers). It hasn't been so long ago when Howie Lay, one of the team's spark plugs, injured himself on the low hanging balcony. This and another injury made it impossible for him to finish the last half of the campaign, an absence which severely hurt the team's chances. Did this frighten the other players away?

Mistreatment was shown when practically everyone on the varsity squad was injured. Sprained ankles were wrapped in thin gauze instead of the necessary Ace Bandage.

How can a hungry, athletic-participating man eat on seventy-five cents? That's all we got after the Trenton game.

Newark State has treated the 1946-1947 basketball team very poorly. Back in December when try-outs were called for, complaints were made about such a small turnout, but how can you expect a larger one in the future when the team is so ill-treated?

It is not my purpose to cause any hard feeling, but instead to help you realize the facts. For better teams in the future, a policy of better treatment is necessary.

Yours for the future,
Al Levine, Sports Editor
