Newly-Engaged Couple

Walsh Finally Convinces Him

An announcement has been made of the engagement of Bar- bara Walsh, sophomore five to Joseph Clarizio, senior at Bloomfield College.

Miss Walsh, daughter of Count and Countess Michael D. Walsh, is the granddaughter of the late Michael D. Walsh, 1, Grand Arch- dyeke of Patersonia on the paternal side and on the maternal side of Paighta Nino ex-Gov- ernor of Mich. and now a well- known maker of foundation gar- ments.

Miss Walsh was presented to society in Mobile, Alabama in 1865 shortly after the close of the Civil War. Her coming out ball was attended by 399 mem- bers of the 400 club, she herself being the four hundredth. She is very active in a great many charitable organizations and has truly earned her title of 'money-bags Walsh'. A member of 'Wall- flowers Anonymous," Miss Walsh first met her fiancé on a blind date. Recently, Miss Walsh, having reached her 85th birthday and become of age, came into a small pittance of $5,000,000. Thus she was able to afford the tutu- tion at Newark State where she has worked her way up from dish washer in the cafeteria to editor of the Reflector. She is seriously thinking of returning to dish washing. As an outstanding member of society she was welcomed with opened arms into Sigma Kappa Phi Sorority where she has now taken over the treas- ury.

Unfortunately, Miss Walsh was unable to continue singing in the Glee Club this year since having reached the age of puberty, her voice changed drastically. How- ever she is now considering joining the orchestra to learn snare drumming. She always had this suppressed desire to be a maj- orette and feels that drumming will be a marvelous outlet for her excess energy.

Mr. Clarizio, who is now in his 10th year at Bloomfield College is an only child. Several of his close friends are said to be res- idents of the Bronx Zoo in the Ape Division. He himself has set up housekeeping in his private suite at Bloomfield College where (Continued on Page 3)

College Organizes Big Search for Its Lost Hammond Organ

The special Organ Stealing Department of Newark State had a very unusual case recently. Mrs. Witherral, new Math instructor, suffered the loss of her Hammond organ. All that remains is the bright new- looking spot on the rug, where the organ once stood. Unfortunately, the only exit large enough for the organ to be lifted through was the French door which had been completely covered with wallpaper by Mrs. Witherral's mother-in-law. Mrs. Witherral feels very badly about the whole situation since the house was entirely without the organ. She has placed her confidence in the superior investigation committee, headed by Senator Downes of the social science depart- ment. His subordinate, chief investigator Sherlock Dickey, is hot on the trail. Results of Sherlock Dickey's report as stolen from authentic confidential files on the case are as follows:

6:00 A.M. Decided to question first suspect. Drove to the hospital to interview Miss Rogers, head of the music department. On way over decided I must eliminate suspect -- too weak to push object through the papered door. Turned back to investigate next likely suspect - Mr. Gerrish.

7:00 A.M. Arrived at home of suspect Gerrish. Rang bell - no answer. Heard strains of recorded music drifting through open window. Entered room and found Midnight Recording Society still in session, finishing the Unfinished Symphony as only they could finish it. Upon questioning, suspects had to be eliminated because they had been in session since midnight, January 29, 1947. However, there was one flaw in the alibi of Dr. Thomason. He did step out for a smoke! But, he had also been reading "Ode to a Green Oyster" by Matthew Luscombe at the time. The dust marks on his fingers bore witness to the truth.

7:15 Stopped off to see Liberace. Decided his organ was too small to hold the organ candelabra. Released him.

7:30 Questioned Mrs. Hughes. She had a perfect alibi. At the time the organ was stolen she was eating in the Tudor Room and figuring out crossword puzzles. She was eliminated.

Reported back to Senator Downes who gave me a new lead. While standing in the library waiting to interview Miss Thomp- son, he noticed a suspicious looking person at the front desk hav- ing his briefcase searched. Upon investigation, it was discovered that he was Joe Tuesday, who was investigating a similar case. Af- ter conferring with Tuesday, Sen- ator Downes discovered that he could be of some help. While passing that great, scenic ex- pansion of water, the Passaic River, he had seen a flat top barge loaded with members of Newark State.

I rushed down to the river and beheld the barge, Admariled by Matthew Luscombe. He made a stunning picture wearing a three cor- nered hat and holding his left hand in his vest. He pointed to the shore and shouted, "Kilmer's Trees Ho!" I saw in plain sight on the barge the organ. I shouted; "Avast there me hearty!" Then much to my surprise, the tune of the Irish Lilt, Mrs. Dan and her group lightly drifted on deck (Continued from Page 3)

Notice!

We would like to remind you that lunches are to be eaten in the Tudor Room and classrooms. The House Committee again re- quests that no lunches be eaten in the college dining room. Please give your cooperation.

Luscombe Takes To Wings

It's a space ship from Mars, a flying saucer. . .No, guess again. It's handsome Pfc. Irving Luscombe, colossal air force man, with his super duper flying machine.

Pfc. Luscombe just returned from Washington, D. C. where he was awarded a most distin- guished medal by President Eisen- hower himself. It seems that Irving was the only air ace to knock down twenty-four dozen trees in a row while preparing for a landing in an apple orchard.

The farmers were so pleased with this feat because Irving saved them the job of hiring men to pick the apples off the trees. He made a deal with the scientific laboratories to insure a speedy discovery of the new gadget.

Scientists are now working on a gadget that can be attached to the plane, so that after the apples are knocked down they can be picked up in one big operation. This device would eliminate manu- nal labor. Our honorable Pfc. Luscombe will supervise the scientific laboratories to insure a speedy discovery of the new gadget.

One of the reasons the men gave for the consolidation was the fact that after conducting a class on the third floor, it was so much nicer to have room ser- vice than counter service.

Part of their plan is to have special phones in each class room so that a teacher can convey his lesson to the chief cook and bottle washer, and while class is in ses- sion, the food can be prepared and sent up to the room by a radar controlled conveyor belt which would be installed on all floors.

Big 3 Hold Confab

Flash. . .Mr. Raichle was seen with his two colleagues Dr. Franksun and Dr. Hutchinson in the swank Counter Room of Scotty's Diner discussing the poss- ibilities of consolidating N.S. T.C. with Scotty's over a cup of specially brewed coffee.

Salvadori Is Missing

The police department of Afghanistan is offering a reward for the information of the whereabouts of Mrs. Mary Salvadori who was last seen roaming around the book stacks of the N.S.T.C. library shortly before her disappearance.

Mrs. Salvadori, a librarian at N.S.T.C. is 21 years of age, has dark brown hair, brown eyes and an ink-stained hands from stamping library cards. When last seen, she was wearing a purple dress with orange polka dots and high-heeled tennis shoes.

Rendell Leads Party

Many students of N.S.T.C. led by Mr. Joseph Rendell have formed a searching party but haven't had any luck in finding Mary. Where can she be?

Mr. Joseph Rendell deciding not to give up the search went back to his desk and -- There almost in front of him was Mary wedged in between the Children's Story Books where she got caught while trying to read "Goldilocks & The Three Bears' while sitting on the bookshelf.

McMeen and Family Set Out for Infinity

Most people at this time of the year spend a lot of time thinking about what they would like to do for the summer. There is one member of our faculty, however, who has made definite plans and is already working on them. Dr. McMeen, who is known for his interesting summers, is finally planning to do something about his life ambition. He is going to hunt for infinity.

The whole family is going on the trip. The McMeen household seeks of preparation and anticipation. Mrs. McMeen is canning food in non-magnetic containers and the men of the family are building the space ship.

George Jr. will operate the ship so that George Sr. may spend all his time observing the atmosphere. In preparation, Junior is taking courses in Space Operation.

Since Mrs. McMeen will be attending to the fuel, she is taking courses on the properties of Xenon. Xenon, you remember, is one of the rare gasses of the air. Thanks to their broad knowledge of math and physics, father and son have concluded that they can go more quickly if they do not carry excess fuel. So Mrs. McMeen is learning how to extract it from the air.

Anyone who has had Dr. McMeen for class can appreciate all the things he expects to find once he reaches infinity. One of the most important things is to see if parallel lines meet at infinity. This has long been a controversial topic and the whole world of science and math is waiting with bated breath for the time when they will know what infinity holds.

Further Plans Of New College

Did you know that plans for the new school include the following?

1. A rest room where students can sleep away all of their free hours which are at present a complete waste.
2. A law which forbids teachers to require students to buy excess books which are never used. This law will be extended to include such useless things as art kits.
3. A further law requiring teachers to practice what they preach and make some of their assignments meaningful as well as coming to the class prepared.

Ins and Outs at Newark State

I'm sure you'll all be interested in hearing about the newest facet of the faculty's social life. Our own Harriet Whiteman entertained the rest of the administration in a "come-as-you-are beer party."

Harriet, as hostess, set the costume pace in her chartreuse and shrimp satin lounging pajamas (embroidered with her initials "Harriet"). Stepping from the informal she let her hair hang loose.

It was interesting to see the informality of our administration at home. Giff Hale, it was noted, achieves those crisp curls in front by means of small metal curlers. Another of the secrets was Gene Wilkins' track suit which he wears for calisthenics to keep his trim figure.

But best of all was the truth about Alton O'Brien - he expressed his hidden desire by wearing his favorite lounging costume - authentic Scotch kilts. He also entertained the group with a few airs on the bagpipes.

Another outstanding event on the faculty scene is the purchase by Finkus McStinkus alias Shamkins' track suit which he wears for calisthenics to keep his trim figure.

I'm not saying anything definite but if you've been wondering why the cafeteria has been a non-profit organization ask Smitty about her flight to Boston.

Well, well Mr. Dolkey was seen the other night having a real night of it - he was really painting the town blue (thank you Senator McCarthy). Of course, Matt drank his usual - orange crush.

Quips and Quacks

Mrs. Salt has run away with Pepper.

Mrs. French has taken up German (John that is).

Mrs. Bartlett has given up cigarettes. She has withdrawn her support from the American Tobacco Company.

Dr. Vaughn-Eames has switched to tea and had her telephone removed. Seeing as she has been here for one year we decided to welcome Peridian Clyburn.

Dr. Genz is finally putting his knowledge of handicaps to work. He has opened a bookie establishment. The hours are from 10:30 to 1:00, except Tuesday when the investigators are in town.

We want to say thank you to Dr. Thomasen. His usage, the much beleaguered senator.

Betty Higgins goes home to Scranton just often enough to re-new her supply of Smokestack 69. She is willing to take orders for this enticing fragrance.

Herman Lepp has finally perfected his exploding Stinko cigar. Place your order with Mary Salvadori in the Library.

Dr. Shea has prepared a mimeographed bibliography for her Children's Literature classes. Your cards are now passe. Discard them.

Aunt Minnie Lipson was seen wandering the corridors the other night at 7:15. wonder why?

Dave Scanlon has a sideline - he haunts houses for a slight fee. In his spare time he is knitting plaid socks for his fellow ghouls.

We have the inside story on Dr. Thomassen. For spare money he drives a trailer truck. Ask him for a ride; he is very obliging.

Don Raichle is busily writing pro-McCarthy speeches. He has also volunteered his booming voice to the much beleaguered senator.

Organ Lost

Engaged Couple

Dr. Rauhinger has announced the appointment of our own Nancy Thompson as chairman of the Investigate that Briefcase Committee. Congratulations!

Question for Mr. Rendell - What does a fifth have to do with visual-aids? Pink elephants?

and joined in joyous participation. Before I was able to shout a warning, the deck tilted and the Hammond organ slid into the Passaic. All was lost! I took Dolkey into custody. Discovered after questioning that his motive for stealing the organ was satisfactory. He needed money to buy a costume for his new Norma's production of "Shubert's Green Horn." Having heard of the investigation in progress, he decided to attempt an escape with the loot which he planned to hock in New York City. Released Dolkey because of the good motive for so worthy a cause. However, organ was not recovered. The bereaved are in the middle of funeral plans at this time.

Time Passes

Six months later: Story as told by communication from innocent bystander Hutchinson as follows: College decided to investigate further into the Witherall Case. Water where the organ fell in was the first clue. A sailing expedition was arranged with Newark State student body and members of the faculty as crew. Since Dolkey had admired the barge so well, it was decided that he would be Captain on this trip. The following positions were assigned to members of the faculty:

Coxwain -- Raichle, Swabbers of the deck -- Brilliante and Janda-rose, Anchor droppers -- Mr. and Mrs. Dan., Calculator -- McMeeen, Water boy -- O'Brien, Poop decker -- Wilkins, "Girl on the prow" -- Whiteman, Diver -- Zweidinger, Crow's nest lookout -- Dysart, Organ identifier -- Witherall.

5:15 P.M. Whale fin was sighted from the crow's nest of the U.S. S. Luscombe. On nearing the object, discovered it to be a pink elephant.

whale, obviously suffering from indigestion, rolling lazily in the briny deep of the Passaic. Something was strange about this whale although at first I couldn't be sure. It was uttering inaudible musical sounds. Dr. Gens, who is now conducting experiments to prove that speech defects can be outgrown, along with his associate Dr. Herbert Katz were of the opinion that the whale had a speech defect caused by the loss of his two front teeth.

prove this I called in my cohorts, over the side with the whaling and Dysart. They decided that it was necessary to procure the whale.

Chief diver Zweidinger plunged into the water to act as decoy for the whale. A boat was dropped over the side with the whaling crew. At its head was coxswain Raichle, whip in hand, encouraging the rowers onward. All the sophomores rowed willingly however, it was necessary. Someone had to spear the whale. No one was willing to initiate this fiendish act. Chief swordsman, Allan DeCicco was called in.

After shocking the whale with his epee and confusing it with his foil, he plunged his saber deep inside the diameter of the whale's mouth. He found it to be large enough to have swallowed the $1,500.00 organ. After this, scalpel Richardson began to dissect the whale. Chief cook Kane was called in to boil the blubber in her trypods. In brewing the fragrant oil, which could be detected 500,000,000,0054995 miles away pieces of wood and metal, along with one organ pedal were discovered. On the advice of the head investigators, the whale and organ were put into their original shape by the I. A. boys in order that the whale's strange taste for Hammond organs might be studied. During the examination, Dr. Gens' theory was proved to be false. The whale had lost its front teeth in the course of swallowing the organ. Psychological examination of the whale by Dr. Dysart found the whale's strange taste for Hammond organs might be studied. Therefore, the whale in order to become satiated, became aggressive and ate the wooden organ. It was not the whale's fault; however, "his momma didn't love him."

Mr. Zweidinger recommends the use of Dannon's Yogurt. Why don't you try it? Available at all better stores.

Assembly Rules -
I hear that the I.A. Convention was very educational and enjoyed by all. There is one mystery though - why couldn't Art and Carl be reached at their hotel at 1:00 A.M.?

I am sorry to have to report that Jim Downes could not be persuaded to run for Congress. His only reason being that they would not let him take his cough. Too bad.

I'm sure you will be glad to hear that Irv Luscombe has taken up a new hobby. He now raises monkeys.

I had a private conference with Jo-Ann Carroll the other day and have it on her authority that Memorabilia 1954 will be mailed out to the seniors for Christmas presents.

I've also heard that Pat M. Burke didn't really hit a tree to hurt her nose she just stuck it where it didn't belong.

Isn't it nice that Matt and Irv are sharing an office now. I wonder if they are going to have an open house or at least a house warming?

Well that is all from your N.S. T.C. reporter -

Newark Wins State Title

NewarkState Teachers College is the new state champions. Newark went into the state tournament with only the faintest chance of winning brought back the championship to our college.

The victory was clearly a team victory with much of the credit going to Mr. D'Angola who coached the boys.

In the first round John Drury's shooting was the big factor. John scored 20 points in the early part of the game and it was enough to make him high scorer and carry Newark to a 48-32 victory over Princeton.

The second round saw Newark defeat a bigger and stronger team from Panzer college by a count of 45-39. This time it was the shooting and defensive work of Dick Reinhart and Don Chamberlain which proved the deciding factor.

The final round of play pitted Newark against last year's winners a great and undefeated Seton Hall team.

Seton Hall had all the physical advantages, they had been in the tournament before, and won it, most of their players had been playing since they were youngsters, and the game was being played on their home ground.

Even with all their advantage, the "Hall" didn't count on the spirit and spunk Newark is so famous for. It was Ernie Frino, who missed last year's tournament as he was in service, and Marsh Bultier who led Newark to the victory. Frino got 17 points and Marsh contributed 18 to Newark's cause. The final score was Newark 51 - Seton Hall 50.

Yes, Newark State can be proud of the team. For we can add to our other honors the title of STATE MARBLE CHAMPIONS. Congratulations to the team.
