Faculty Tells Pet Peves

Question: What is your pet peeve? Faculty members only.

Dr. Fink: Some people are just too damned genteel!

Miss Bandridge: My pet peeve is where is that school dismissed into the uninform ed? I can't find out for myself what that new school is about.

Dean O'Brien: I have no pet peeve.

Mr. Fink: Some people are just too damned genteel!

Mrs. D'Angolo: My pet peeve is people who don't light a fire hydrant! Why can't they read the signs? I've been taught to read!

Dr. Genus: How can I give my pet peeve? I love everybody.

Miss Hinkins: My pet peeve is eating makes ONE cock. Dr. Fink: I wish all people who ask, Where is that school dismissed into the uninform ed? I can't find out for myself what that new school is about!

Miss Bandridge: My pet peeve is having to write about a pet peeve.

Dr. Hutchinson: I don't peeve easily.

Mr. Raitle: Students, who when they turn in their essays, are expected to show off their literary knowledge by using the "we" instead of the "I". This is a very well known literary device. The "we" is an exercise in order to appear to be a well read person. But there is no other school which can. top the humane feeling and curiosity, and since we have interrupted the fascinating essay, we will at this point explain that the "we" is not really "we", but only "you" or "youse". (For the sake of parallelism, perhaps we should use the editorial "we", and it makes us feel professional, and actually, you needn't worry about it, you will simply have to put up with it. (Or for the sake of parallelism, perhaps we should use the editorial "you", or "youse". Must look it up in "How To Be A Writer in Ten Easy Lessons" by P. Burke.)

We arrived at school, naturally wondering what we were going to get? Every man should have it and every woman should every man have? What is he going to get? There are people shouting about? Do you know? Well if I don't want to become frustrated I'll HAVE to see the "Glass Menagerie". The most recent addition to the recreational program at Newark State is the art of fencing. Because of the newness of the program, few people have had the opportunity to meet the fencing instructor, Mr. Alan DeCicco.

Mr. DeCicco is from Limerick, Pennsylvania. After all, organs cost money.

Women In Sports by Ronnie Waldorf

The Women's basketball season has come to the end of the 1953-54 season. Looking over the past season, we find that it was a good one. Beside playing the regular intramural games Newark played twelve outside games and lost three.

Fairleigh Dickinson

Newark met and defeated Fairleigh Dickinson in both games of a double header on March 19, in the Newark Gym. The first game was sparked by the shooting of Eleanor Wundling and "Midg" Zote. Eleanor Wundling was the high scorer, scoring 12 of Newark's 27 points. Helen Jones, Jenny Glaniser, and Ronnie Waldorf held the Fairleigh forwards.

In the second game of the day Flo "Streach" Meehan just stood under the basket and dropped in 16 points. Flo was assisted by the "Golddust Twins" Lianne Worrell and Esther Knecht. Fairleigh was hampered in their scoring by the great defensive play of Snoopy Brown, Peg McCarthy, Joan Dante, and Antis Robinson, who held the Fairleigh team to 33 points. Final score Newark 41, Fairleigh Dickinson 33.

Trenton Play Day

The annual Play Day took place at Trenton State Teachers College on Saturday, March 28. Beside Newark there were eleven other colleges present.

All the colleges present had representatives on each of the two teams which all the colleges were divided into. By having members on both the blue and gold team each college had members on the winning and losing side.

Newark's blue basketball team played against Fairleigh Dickinson (a coincidence) and defeated them 18-4. The game started out by Fairleigh scoring two quick baskets. Before the 1st time out of the 1st quarter, Newark, had a tough time trying to come through the Fairleigh's zone defense. "Streach" Meehan altered the situation by stationing herself under the basket, and scored a point on a free throw. The first quarter ended with Newark leading 7-4. In the 2nd quarter of the game Newark scored a point on a free throw. Flo was assisted by the "Golddust Twins" Lianne Worrell and Esther Knecht. Flo was able to score five points for Newark in the 2nd quarter. The half ended with Newark leading 17-10.

Mr. Zwergelder gives help and advice and pointers to those who were on the losing side. Flo and Esther, who were on the losing side, told the rest of them that the rest of the crowd who goes swimming lets the protective life guard practice on them.

Besides studying for Senior Life Saving, the crowd who goes swimming on Wednesday afternoon will find time for water polo and have a game of keep-it-ball.

Keep-it-ball is a favorite of the alumni. The alumni who were a little too old for the regular game, just kept trying to keep the ball away from the alumni and vice-versa. You should see Lianne Worrell, Esther Knecht, Eleanor Wundling, and Bridget Zotte trying to keep the ball away from giants like Al Williams, Bob Travis, Art SERY, and Peggy Langle.

Summer's coming up and if you want to get in practice for water polo, or if you want to go swimming on Wednesday afternoon for only 50c at the Newark Boys' Club.

Summary

The members of the Women's Basketball club can be very proud of their 750 percentage. The victories were clearly a team victory with no "real" outstanding players. As Coach "Bunny" Schneid put it, everyone in the club is good. When one girl was off another girl was on.

Much of the credit for the victories must go to the guards. In twelve games, the Newark guards allowed only 235 points to be scored against them while the forwards scored 347. This means the Newark guards allowed an average of 18 points scored against them while the forwards scored an average of 29 points per game.

Alumni Game Precedes "Sports of the Seasons"

The alumni game took place on the afternoon of the annual women's tennis tournament, which took place on March 25. The participants were 24 alumni, one of the groups was the Essex County team. The alumni team consisted of Reesa The "Art" Serwatka, Ritta "Shorty" Hekker, Pat "Net Shot" Young, Ross "Mac" McCann, and Ronnie Waldorf and Marge Hergenham alternating as the sixth player.

The game was a wild and wacky one full of fun for all who played or watched. The referees, Miss Schneider, was rooting for the alumni and the assistant referee, Jack "Bole" was rooting for the Essex team. It is good. When one girl was off another girl was on.

Upon entering the cafeteria the members found the alumni's basketball club, alumni, cheerleaders, and faculty found the place blooming with flowers. The theme of this banquet's sport's "Seasons" was carried out not only in the usual decorations but floral center pieces on each table denoted the season of the table. Beside the floral center piece on each table, the season was brought out further by the flowers and not only in the decorations.
