Senior Prints
After heated arguments during the senior class meeting held Thursday, October 27, it was decided to wear dark sweaters with a single strand of pearls for the senior pictures. A segment of the class was in favor of a drapery neckline for a more sophisticated photo, which brought about the need for the special meeting. Pictures will be taken this week.

Committee Announces Results Tomorrow
The results of a survey completed last year based on student opinion regarding sororities and fraternities at Newark State were considered at a meeting of the Inter Sorority-Fraternity Council.

The council, composed of presidents of all sororities and fraternities at the college, is in the process of compiling the answers of the questionnaires and will announce its findings on November 2. This delay in the tabulation and publication of the final results of the survey is due partly to the nature of the questions which demanded an essay, rather than objective type answers. Because of this, a small committee has been established to read these responses and determine whether or not they favor the continued recognition of sorority and fraternity functions on our campus.
The committee is made up of two members of a fraternity or sorority, two non members, two faculty advisors to a fraternity or sorority, and two faculty members who are not advisors.
The student body may have noticed this year that there was no hazing of sorority or fraternity pledges in the college. This has become a very controversial tradition here at Newark State. Although we here at Newark have played major roles in Members of Sororities and Fraternities are looking to the future and have come to believe that eventually all sorority and fraternity activity will be permanently curtailed on this campus as well as the new. Sororities and Fraternalities in all colleges have become somewhat of a tradition. Although we here at Newark have played major roles in Members of Sororities and Fraternities in all colleges have become somewhat of a tradition. Although we here at Newark have played major roles in Members of Sororities and Fraternity Council.

Unfortunately the results of the questionnaires were not made public before the senior show was taken to do away with hazing. It will play a major role in the continued recognition of sorority and fraternity functions in our college.

"George Washington Slept Here" Interesting, Entertaining Selection
Norma Theatre Guild's fine presentations of "George Washington Slept Here" were huge successes last week. An enthusiastic audience thoroughly enjoyed the humorous antics of the many characters and laughter rang throughout the auditorium.

Each dramatist was a star in his own right and all contributed to the final production. Not only the cast, but those behind the scenes who worked so hard made a very good show. Each one of them made an important point in making such a possible show. As evidenced by the responses of the audience, it is obvious to see that the school is looking forward to the next semester's selection by the club.

Those contributing to the wonderful outcome were: Teachers: Georgia Walker, James Cerasa, Al Leicke, Pat Cuccolo, Charles Sheels, Mary Lou Blackard, Marilyn Thompson, Adam Sankiewicz, Fred Smith, and Evelyn Decman. In charge of the committee that so capably managed Production: Mrs. James Cerasa, production crew, Prop, Make-up, and Ticket was: Julia Volmer, Rosemary Bucenici, Henry Kohl, Joan Collins, Barbara Styler, and Elaine Goss.

Good Grooming This Week
Good Grooming Week for Prospective Senior Showers will be held here at Newark State Teachers College under the joint aegis of Dr. Harriet Whiteman, pro­fessor of education, and director of the college. This year the campus will be at the campus for the entire week.
The highlights of the week long program are open to the entire student body and will be held in the auditorium. The first of these will be a demonstration on the proper use of cosmetics. This will be given by a representative from channels of the school at 12:30 on Wednesday, November 2. On Thursday of the same week a representative from the Borka Company will speak on the care of the hair, during the second hour.
The series will be climax on Friday, November 3 at 11:00 by the annual fashion show. Students from this college have been selected to model the fashions to be shown through the courtesy of Hahn and Company, Newark, a former member of the physical education department, the college's admiration for their good sportsmanship and sense of humor.
Bill (March) La Russo proved to be a very witty master of ceremonies and Gladys Green's commercials stole the show. The prizes awarded to the winning contestants included two tickets to Norma production of "George Washington Slept Here," a free cafeteria luncheon, and several copies of the college hand book. The only complaint on the part of these fortunate contestants was that the air, light, sound proof isolation booth did not provide cross ventilation.

School Keys, Rings On Sale Now
Orders for college jewelry have been taken since October 20. The bookstore will take or­ders until November 18. All Juniors as well as Seniors must order their class rings and pins during the specified time since this spring no orders will be taken.
As you all know the college will be moving to Union in a very short time. Probably the present combination of the last class to graduate from Newark State. Naturally a graduate of the college will prefer to have college jewelry with the new name on it.

Faculty Fabrications Contest
Box To Be on Third Floor
This picture is the third in the series in the REFLECTOR sponsored Faculty Fabrications Contest. By now the student body is pretty well informed on how the contest works, however, we have had very little response. This we feel is due to the fact that the box in which to place your certificate blanks was not displayed on the first floor.
Little is known of the fact that the bulletin board in front of room 29 is owned by the REFLECTOR.

There can be found, not only assign­ments for the reporters, but also the most sought after ballot box. Mr. Baicale has been suffering un­der the misapprehension for four years that half the bulletin board is his, however, we are sure that a peaceable agree­ment can be made between us enabling us to properly display posters on the contest.
"Good luck to all of you. Here's hoping you get the radio."

Senior Show To Be Held
It has been a long established tradition here at Newark State for each class to give a show. In the past however, the seniors having had at least two years of experience, had to bow to superior productions put on by the underclass­men. To quote an old Republican theme, "It is time for a change."
Yes according to the senior show committee, the year 1955 will go down in history, not only as the year that a satellite was launched and the polio vaccine discovered, but more important by far, the year that the senior class took top honors in the unusual class show competition here at Newark.
The senior show being planned now will go off with a bang on December 1 with Jane Hanson as chairman. The theme is still being kept secret.

$64,000 Question
Mr. Joseph Hill, exchange in­structor from England, exhibits intricate knowledge of life at Newark State.
Congratulations are due to the Exchange Instructor Committee of the Student Council who planned and participated in this entertaining and instructive question contest here at Newark.

Students Speak!

Dear Editor:
I have just completed reading 'Student Sees Intellectual Growth Stunted' by Jack Citarelli to be published in the November 8 issue. I am disappointed in Mr. Citarelli's attitude toward Newark State and I wonder if he really believes what he wrote or is he, perhaps, guilty of journalistic sensationalism?

In the middle of paragraph two he states the College Student who pretends to learn through cramming--(Q) Can one really pretend learning? (T) No, one can't, but I do agree, (U) the best for marks for the sake of grades.

(1) the student's attitude towards instructors, classmates, their work and college.

Let me point just one other reason than this disturbs me more than point (a). I have always felt in my four (completing four) years at New York State the attitude or rather relationship of the students toward their faculty was wholesome, relaxed and nourishing--and vice versa. Sure we don't agree on everything. But is that bad? I think it's rather stimulating, motivating, and relaxing--(Q) Can one really pretend learning? If so, then what is the matter with Mr. Citarelli's attitude? I feel it's rather stimulating, motivating, and relaxing--(Q) Can one really pretend learning?

Point (a) brings several questions to my mind. Is it possible for a student to aim for a grade, for the sake of a grade? Is only the student involved? Of what the instructor? Because a student has such a goal, does mean that he will gain nothing more than a "Grade"? I believe that the student is a member of such a goal eventually forgets the "Grade". His interest is developed thru his course of study. He becomes involved in his learning and understanding of the questions and answers. I feel there is a final transition of goals within the student before the completion of his course and I think that he is interested in his knowledge of study--and the Learning Process.

In conclusion, dear Editor, I don't feel student interest is the best thing seen by Mr. Citarelli, but rather, further awareness of our poor grading system throughout our colleges and what to do about it.

Sincerely, Cathy Stobie

Dear Editor,
Unless it is an error on my part, I should like to call to your attention the fact that the box for Faculty Fabrications entry blanks, which was supposed to have been placed in the main hall, is not there. In addition, may I add that the contest has not been getting nearly enough publicity. It is a good idea, an excellent way for freshmen as well as upperclassmen to become acquainted with our faculty so please don't let it die! Talk it up and picture it in your mind. If it's not there and I haven't seen it, you have my apologies but still, it play up more much. Thank you!

Shirley Jacobson
(Senior 5)'s Note: thank you for your interest, Shirley. Probably by the time this issue is out you will have to see the box for the contest and also publicity posters."

Dear Editor,
Considering the very limited facilities of our college, it is a shame that more students are not encouraged to make use of our college library. This is due largely to the fact that an authoritarian and somewhat myopic influence on absolute (Continued on Page 3)
Forum Plans Calendar; Scanlon to Speak

Are you as well informed as a prospective teacher should be? If not, then join the college forum which promises to have a number of very interesting and educational programs this year. Panel discussions, films, debates and speakers on some very controversial issues are now being planned for your benefit. A list of tentative programs has been drawn up by members of the club's programming committee. Some of the topics to be presented are the Arab-Israeli question, the Admission of Red China to the United Nations, Desegregation, and religion in Public Schools. Some of our faculty have been invited to discuss the Mau Mau Revolt in Kenya, the Fairness of the Quota System under the McCarran Act and the Army's Educational program in Germany.

The club has also been invited by the C. C. U. N. to attend one of their meetings at which Mr. D. J. Dilwali of India will speak on his country's role in the United Nations. This year the club hopes to increase its membership by providing good programs and many speakers. It is hoped that students will take advantage of this opportunity by either joining the forum or merely sitting in on some of their programs. As one of the club's first offerings, Dr. Scanlon, a recognized authority on African questions, will speak on the Tensions Paramount in French Morocco Today and their Relation to Us. Dr. Scanlon spent 1952-1953 as a technical expert in education to the Liberian Government as a part of the UNESCO fundamental education program in the Dimeh Region, twenty miles inland from the capital city of Liberia, Monrovia. Here his particular mission was to establish institutes for the training of elementary teachers. He worked in cooperation with the World Health Organization and UNESCO Agricultural Commission.

All students are invited to attend this program. It will take place during club hour on Tuesday, November 1.

Cheerleaders Chosen

Approximately sixty girls tried out for this year's cheerleading team. Ernie Frank, Marcella, Dick Reinhardt, Bill LaRusso, Bob Giacobbe, Hank Kohl, Doug Cisco, Harry Morsch, Don Wilson, Ron Barnard, Abe Beveridge, Art Russomano, Ray Giacobbe, Archie Chiles, Ken Smedberg, Wilbur Blanchard, and Mary Gerber. The managers are Jack Citarelli, and Allan "The Glass" Sternfeld.

To acquaint the students of what they can expect to see, here is a small sketch of some of the Newark State "big guns."

As a starting point let's look at Ernie Frank, Ernie is an outstanding ball player and a great athlete with the greatest of ease. His soft-spoken manner is exhibited both on and off the court. When he graduates this coming June, State will lose one of the finest ball players that it has ever produced. Ernie is a smooth ball handler as well as a sharp shooter. His soft one-handed jump shot will rip the cords many times this year. In three years of fine basketball, he always ranked as one of the top scorers. Coach Janaronne is looking to Ernie to have the finest season of his Newark State basketball career. Bob Giacobbe is a member of the sophomore class and he will again be an important man on the Newark State basketball team. He was graduated from Barringer High School, and at Barringer he was a successful athlete in baseball and basketball. He made the all-county basketball team and the all-city team in basketball. Bob served in the U. S. Army for two years. In service he was stationed in both Texas and Pennsylvania.

As an athlete of Newark State he is successful in basketball and baseball. Bob's main goal after graduation is to become a life insurance salesman. He is also a member of the G. E. Men's Guild.

It is a matter of some time before Bob is a life insurance salesman. He gets great enjoyment in playing Poker. Bob likes to listen to music and says that Frank Sinatra is his favorite vocalist.

In high school Bob scored 33 points against Montclair and 25 points against H. S. Armstrong. Art Russomano will be a letter man in basketball Bob, he is also a pitcher and an outfielder on our basketball team. Bob will be an important man on the Newark State basketball team, playing short stop. During the time he was in high school, Bloomfield managed to have four athletic championships.

As a hobby, Art enjoys listening to popular music. His favorite male vocalists are Frank Sinatra and Perry Como. Art predicts that the song "Love and Marriage" will be No. 1 on the hit parade. His two favorite female vocalists are Bert Jenner and Thomas еврове. Art is also very interested in all girls who are members of either the freshman or sophomore classes. Girls beware of this dashing young gentleman.

Last year played brilliantly in the freshman-sophomore basketball game. He was also third leading rebounder on the freshman-sophomore team, playing short stop. Despite the fact of his heavy schedule, he also manages to work at night. This year Art is expected to play on both our basketball and baseball teams.

Art is one young man who fights very well. He was the leading baseball player on the baseball team last year, he changed to basketball at the right time. If he plays basketball as well as he plays short stop, Newark State has nothing to worry about. Now, with his weak old crew cut, he should fly down the court with the greatest of ease. Art will show that he is a rough man under the boards. His quick, sure hands will be a great help in the biggest game.
