Senior Class Sponsors Show

Are you tired of seeing the same old drab looking faces about you in the corridors of Newark State? Do you think that some of them could stand some lifting, plastic surgery, and if all else fail, covering? Then you dear reader are most unappreciative of true beauty.

The REFLECTOR suggests that you remedy this serious deficiency in your educational background by attending the Senior Class Show. Informed sources have revealed that outstanding consoulections will be on hand to help widen your background.

Seriously though, the senior this year promises to be bigger and better than ever, and while we can't guarantee your intellectual stimulation we do promise to tickle your funny bone with many a fantastic scene.

The seniors have been working like the proverbial beavers, neck deep in scripts and props. The scenery and lighting and program are all prepared. Now all we need is your presence. Do yourself a favor. Come to the Senior Class Show.

Douglas Enjoys Tea; Juniors to Attend Hop

Hank Kobl

A Welcoming Tea was held on October 26 for the Juniors from Douglass College, Rutgers University and transfers from other colleges. Each new Junior received a small corsage with a welcoming tag attached. Refreshments consisted of coffee and finger sandwiches. The New Juniors thought the welcoming tea was a very thoughtful gesture and they enjoyed it immensely.

The Junior Prom will be held on May 3, 1956 at the Chi-Am Chateau, Highway 22, Mountainside, New Jersey, from 8:30 to 1 a.m. There will also be a Buffet Supper and a band which has not been decided upon. The Junior Class has received special permission from President E. G. Wilkins and the Administrative Cabinet to charge a specified amount of $1.50 per person for the buffet supper to be served during the latter part of the evening. The chairman of the Junior Class Prom Committee is Virginia Glaser.

REFLECTING

LOU MOLINARI

The story Lou Molinari outstanding County student today is a wonderful one. Upon graduating from high school, Lou went to the famous Manhattan School of Mines. His time in college was very good and he liked the school. Lou then became a mechanical engineer and did the same thing day after day, and he realized he wanted to do something more. He decided to change, a world where he could grow both physically and mentally.

He loved machines and knowing N.S.T. and fine Industrial Arts course, he decided to apply. Lou received a scholarship this year for a two-year course at the School. He also made the Dean's List.

Lou is a Staff Sgt. in the National Guard and instructs a group of youngsters in the field of photography. He enjoys this work very much.

For the last two summers Lou has spent his time at the Main Building. In his spare time he repairs guns and does a fine job. Lou then is in his new profession.

In school, Lou is a member of the Sigma Pi and Theta Chi Fraternity. He is also a member of Epsilon Pi Tau and Rho Chi, both wanted honorary societies of the school.

He will be teaching his students in A.T.A., the Junior-Town Meeting. Another day Lou will never forget was August 6. That day was the day she became engaged to his fiancé, to be married this October. Lou is looking forward to the wedding and the marriage.

ANN CAMPOLATTARO

If one day you are called to Dr. Whitman's office don't tremble, don't fret, who knows--you may be called to appear on a T.V. show. That is precisely what happened to Ann Campolattaro. Yes! On October 29 Ann was told she had been selected to appear on a T.V. show. Ann decided to view by Jerry Roberts and being seen by so many wonderful people was a new and thrilling experience to her.

Another day Ann will never forget was August 6. That day was the day she became engaged to his fiancé, to be married this October. Lou is looking forward to the wedding and the marriage.

ANN CAMPOLATTARO

"But why doesn't someone do something about it? This college is the epitome of disorganization and mess, and we can't be heard.

I believe that these activities as such are displayed by some students. Somewhere, someone is commotion only for a cause of his own. Other thing. Yet, the very same person complaining run for a student president concentrate on line, color and form rather than for a student government, purely representational art. It is universal, using lines and colors while producing an individualized picture.

I believe with this principle in mind that students have set forth to do something about it, not only to broaden their own personal background but to understand and appreciate art in general.

The Big Orange

Perhaps you undergraduates have forgotten what a freshman's days are all about. To refresh your memories, let me tell you of my own first days here. I'd like to highlight what I am sure I will always remember.

Entering COLLEGE is like nothing I had ever experienced. High school was frightening, but there, there were no new surroundings. At college, there could say I was still at home even in strange surroundings. But here, there were just strangers.

At first it was hard - new surroundings, a new situation. But soon, strangers became friends. Meeting our professors was more of an adventure than a problem. Life was easy, but it soon changed.

The first obstacle, the book store was present. That harrowing experience which no student, no matter what grade, can escape. Pull out a book slip; sorry, no chance of a five; ran out of that book yesterday, gotta make a claim, come back later! all familiar critics to us all, but to freshmen - the roar of a bull elephant. It frightened me and left a feeling ofReceiver in me; that in order to obtain them, I would have to write them. But finally, with little or no help of others, I learned to think and discuss it with others, to investigate, to read, and to think. That is why it is so important to have a real part of the college. I knew my way around the building. I could open my locker quickly, I could go to my classes, I could take my classes.

It happened... Freshman hazing. The scourge of all freshmen by upperclassmen. Help those who are not ready to be hazed. Of course, it is not just upperclassmen who do this. During those days though, it was more than just the freshers who they obeyed. After all, a fair trial came with every offense. Offenses were always unanimous; all upperclassmen were responsible and all freshmen were victims, and no one minded counting windows for a whole afternoon.

It is what I remember best about my first month here at college. I hope that it has brought some pleasant memories to you.
Student Council Reports

Charity Drive in Spring

The student council reports that all committee lists have been completed with the exception of the House and Athletic Committees. These will be drawn up in the very near future.

Among the new business discussed at the last council meeting were plans by the News Service Bureau in the school and the functions of the Standing Committee. The discussion made clear that the standing committees include publicity, mimeograph, Constitution revision, and N.S.A. chairman.

The next meeting on the agenda dealt with plans for the Charity Drive to be held next spring. An important meeting of all the councils and sororities and fraternity presidents was held on November 19, as an outgrowth of this discussion. It was decided that the clubs, sororities and fraternities will have an active part in the drive and therefore it was decided necessary to poll their opinions in regard to Charity Drive planning and organization. Some of the ideas mentioned included the following:

- Twenty-seven Speech Handicap Majors will visit the deaf on November 28th.
- The trip provides an excellent opportunity to observe the problems of teaching the deaf. This is a school set up to instruct the deaf children of all ages from the ages of 3 to 18. Brooks will accompany the girls on the charter bus.
- The Hi-Lows made their first appearance two weeks ago when they sang for the Glee Club's lively number, The Benny Parado. As for their future plans, they will sing at both the Thanksgiving and Christmas programs. Among their numbers will be Steigh Ride, The Christmas Song and Holiday. They will combine their voices with the Men's Glee Club and the women's Glee Club at both programs.
- The next item on the agenda is the Hi-Lows, the Men's Glee Club, and the orchestra with the audience also participating in some activities.
- Dr. Williams will make a proclamation of gratitude to all the other choruses at the Hi-Lows.
- The Hi-Lows held a rehearsal on Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Obviously the girls are very enthusiastic about the future plans of the Hi-Lows, and are always willing to hold extra rehearsals whenever needed.

Wappalanne Winter Weekend

Wappalanne, the college nature club, plans to hold its next meeting on November 21 at 7:00 P.M. in the auditorium. The group is planning a winter weekend at Stokes State Forest on December 3 and 4 and plans for this outing will be discussed at this meeting. All those interested in 3. the of these activities are invited to attend the meeting and learn of the details.

It is hoped that Ben Cumming, director of education at New Jersey State School of Conservation, will be able to speak at this meeting. Mrs. Bartlet will also add to the entertainment by showing the group the slides that she took at Yellowstone and Glacier National Park.

Hi-Lows Rehearse

Look! Look! - - a fifty-two measure re- - - just time to dash to the REFLECTOR deadline for this issue. Why must the paper keep going to press when we are in the middle of a run?

We have a larger group this year. Xavier Solememe, back again at Newark State from a trip to New York, made the REFLECTOR deadline for this issue. Why must the paper keep going to press when we are in the middle of a run?

Atlantic City City Convention

Held November 10th

As in many years past, this year too, the New Jersey Education Association held its convention in Atlantic City, New Jersey. A very full schedule attracted teachers and administrators to the convention. Numerous many teachers went home with free samples from exhibits plus a wealth of new and varied ideas.

The first general session began at 8 p.m. on Thursday, November 10, at Convention Hall. It was preceded by Mrs. Mary C. Smith, president of NEA At, and preliminaries by Dr. Frederick M. Raubinger spoke and the president of the New Jersey State Teachers Colleges were introduced. Dr. Eugene W. Wilkins among them. As address by Dr. John Lester Buhford, president of NEA followed. After a musical diversion by the Voices of Harry Mulder, the assembly was addressed by the Hon. Robert B. Meyner, Governor of New Jersey, and Dr. Ralph G. Macdonald, president, Bowling Green State University, Ohio.

The second general session on Friday, November 11, at 2:30 p.m., paid special tribute to Veterans' Day with an address by Donald R. Wilson, past national commander, American Legion, and music by the Senior Drum and Bugle Corps. Captain Harry W. Doremus Post No. 55 American Legion from Hackensack and past champions. Several of the highlights of the third general session were the Oberin Harp Ensemble from Oregon, Having the NJEA mortgage, and a talk given by Secretary Carlos P. Bomolito, Philippine Ambassador to the United Nations, on 'America's Stake in Asia.'

In addition recreational activities included two NJEA dances and a concert Saturday night, and a picnic Sunday at 3 p.m. by the 1935 New Jersey All-State High School Chorus and Orchestra.

The time between general sessions was crammed with various NJEA group meetings, too numerous to mention.
