Majority Approve New Refectory

by Rosemarie Sinibaldi

Many innovations have occurred at the college, and many more are to come, not the least of which will be the new campus itself. When we will have the new campus with completely new buildings, it is only fitting that a new refectory should be added. A refectory is needed for the sake of many lines that many colleges already have.

One of these lines has already been instituted. As of February, the student body was permitted to arrange their own schedules, choosing time and instructor. This is a big step forward from the old system of sections.

The student body seems quite happy with the new system. Here are some reactions.

BARRABRA ZAREMIA, SOPH.: Feels more like a college.

ELEANOR ROMANO, FRSH.: Makes the college seem bigger.

MAE LEONHARDT, SOPH.: It gives the college a chance to reduce the status of people. It eliminates waste of time. It gives the college a more grown-up aspect.

PATRICIA ROGAN, SOPH.: You meet different people. Makes work easier for the college.

MARY LAKE, FRSH.: I've met people that I didn't even know were sophomores on my own schedule. It gives the college a grown-up air and makes us feel as though we really go to college.

PAMELA MIOLA, FRSH.: It's a change for the better.

You get to know more people.

ELEANOR ARENS, SOPH.: Gives more independence to students but makes more work for the college. Advantages outweigh disadvantages though.

CATHRYNE TAYLOR, SOPH.: Gives one a chance to figure in work. There is also more time to study and more free time for yourself. Makes N.S.T.C. a college instead of a high school and makes adults out of us.

They're back! Their return is accompanied by an increase in population, in noise, and a decrease in space.

No longer is one able to walk into the Tudor Room and find numerous overfilled chairs empty and free for the taking. Instead, one is lucky to be able to enter its portals. And as for playing bridge, not a chance unless you bring your own set.

The call of "fourth for bridge" is as obsolete as the nickel cup once carried in the purse of every female student. The call of "fourth for bridge" is replaced by the rather dull sound of "first for English." And this means that students who are interested in playing bridge must take a day off to go into the Tudor Room and find chairs for their hands to rest on.

The college is working at full capacity again, for the juniors and seniors are back. It's back to the old routine for all.

Data on Exam Survey Revealed; More Opinions Solicited

A research topic assignment in a senior English class led Cathy Stibbits to conduct a survey of "Student Reactions to Preparing for a College Test" last year. She prepared a questionnaire sheet which required the students to indicate their reactions about testing by answering "yes", "no" or "sometimes" to each question. The questionnaire was then distributed among 26 members of each class level attending Newark State Teachers College. The following work shows the results of that study.

Sophs Crown Cupid's Couple

The Soph dance held on February 16 in the college gym was considered to be one of the outstanding events of the year. The highlight of the evening was the crowning of the Cupid's Couple. The couple placed their names in a box. The bandleader picked the lucky pair. The winners were Gall Doua and her fiancé, Marshall Scott. Gall, who is from Elizabeth, is a math science major and a member of the glee club. She received her freshman scholarship in her freshman year. Her fiancé, who was in the navy, is employed by the Twin County Grocery Co. Inc. They will be married at Graystone Presbyterian Church in Elizabeth, August 4.

Students View ACE-FTA Film

"A Home For Billie" will be shown on March eight at 10 A.M. in the auditorium to all students interested in reading. It was made possible by the N.C.C. T.A. Organization Acting President, Miss Pat Garrett, arranged for "A Home For Billie" to be shown on the radio show.

News Exchanged

Newspapers from many other colleges and universities are received regularly by the REFLECTOR. These publications will be available in the Newspaper Section of the library to those students interested in reading material from other higher institutions of education.

The students gave the following reactions to the questionnaire:

Senior - "The above questions are very good, in fact for the first time you are attempting to find the effect of exams or tests on an individual. Perhaps this is a personal comment, but I can say definitely that tests scare me to death! I do not feel the results compare with my ability."

Junior - "I hope these papers may be used to influence the instructors when they give exams next time."

Freshman - "In my opinion a questionnaire of this sort is very good. Too often people do not realize how the students feel about their coming exams."

This survey brought forth surprising and interesting results. Do you have any gripes about exams or tests? REFLECTOR would like to hear about them.

Reading Skills Pursued; Opportunities Still Open

The new reading center is now in operation. Mr. Donald Bleeke, the director of the Center, reports that the demand is very popular with both the freshmen and the sophomores and that the attendance is high.

The hours of the Center are governed according to each student's schedule. At first only Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons were planned for classes, but the response has necessitated the addition of extra hours. Each reading student receives a work book, a work sheet and a progress folder. This progress folder shows the student concrete evidence of his advancement in speed and comprehension while reading.

The work at the center is designed so that students may progress through the lessons at their own rate and speed. A series of timed readings and short tests indicate if the study of reading has been too fast for comprehension or if they can read faster. Certain skills will be recognized and developed during the course.

Ironically, a large number of students attending the center are already good readers who wish to improve their reading skills.

There is still room for any students who are interested. If you feel you want to increase your reading skills, an opportunity is still open to you.

NJCH Meet

The New Jersey Conference of College Freshmen was held at Newark State Teachers College on February 5. This conference is composed of professional people who are interested in handicapped children. Among the members of this group are doctors, nurses, and educators who volunteer their services to further the study of the handicapped children.

One of their current projects is the revision of the booklet entitled "The Classroom Teacher and the Handicapped Child." Various chapters of the booklet are being rewritten for publication by specialists throughout the state in their particular field of endeavor.

The chapter on "Children With Speech Defects" is being revised by our Dr. George Newmann Broadcast On Radio

Five students from Newark State Teachers College represented the Newman Club of our school on the radio show, Catholic Youth Forum, which was broadcast on Sunday, February 17 on WKAT. The subject of the discussion for the evening was the life of Cardinal Henry Newman, the founder of the Newman Club throughout the country. The discussion originated from Newark State including Barbara Mazzu- skas, Rosemarie Drizel, Marion Thompson, John Greco, and James Ceresa.

Debate was a the program by Reverend Smith, spiritual director of the Newman Club at N.S.T.C.

Touring Our New College Site

Opening Date in Sept.

The opening date for the new college is still set for September, 1957. Other dates and arrangements for opening have been submitted.

Among the many submitted suggestions, the most popular plan was sent in by a member of the Newark State faculty, Mr. Herman Lepp. He suggested that the students begin college in Newark a day after Labor Day in September. They would remain in Newark until November 30 and then have the complete month of December for vacation. After New Year's Day, the freshman and sophomore students would go to the new college and the juniors and seniors will go out practicing teaching. They will begin at the new college in March.

It is not definitely decided as what time classes will begin and end. It is possible they will either start at 8:30 or 9:00 in the morning and end at 4:30 or 5:00 in the afternoon. There will be ten minutes between all classes and each class will begin on the hour.

Wide Selection Of Courses

By action of the New Jersey State Board of Education, the new State Teachers College has changed from a single into a multi-purpose college. As stated in the last issue of the REFLECTOR, the State Department of Education has ordered the college to provide teachers' training for high school social studies, mathematics, industrial and fine arts.

The new curriculum will also provide nursery school training. The new college will be the first to provide this type of education in the State. Newark State's present program of general elementary, teaching of the handicapped, junior high school, and kindergarten-primary training will be continued and expanded.

Post-graduate courses will be offered to master's degree with evening and Saturday sessions.

Eventually it is hoped that the new school will become a complete college of education with emphasis on liberal arts work. In the near future, electrical, including foreign languages, will begin. This program is expected to enlarge as time progresses.

Newark State Teachers Colleges if all other qualifications are approved. The reason for this movement is the possibility that more students would consider the teacher field.

Room for 3000

In 1962

Future expansion area for the five buildings has been provided for in the construction plans. Within the next five years there are destines for the accommodations for three thousand students.

A bond issue is being prepared by the state to present to the voters in 1958 for the expansion of the present size.

It is hoped that by 1962 the following buildings will be erected for students use:

- Dorms for Campus
- Another gymnasium will be built near the original gym. It will double the capacity of the present one. One will be used by the men and the other will be occupied by the women.

- The dining area in the food service building will be enlarged three times the present size.

- Another classroom building is planned that will be twice the size of the administration building.

- The library will have an additional wing added on that will more than double its size.

- There will be three dorms on the campus by the end of September. The one men's dorm will accommodate two hundred students, and the two women's dorms will hold two hundred girls each. Dr. Eugen Wilkins feels that the addition of these buildings will be the beginning of a new campus spirit. These buildings will house one-fifth of the college day students.

- The clinic wing of the administration building will be expanded for a larger child study area.

- It will be a center for child behavior research.

Across from the campus is situated the historical Kean house, Liberty Hall, that was built during the Revolutionary Period. Among the famous statesmen who resided at this home was Alexander Hamilton, the first secretary of the Treasury. John Jay, the First Chief Justice of the Supreme Court took his marriage vows at this site. The school campus was once a part of these historical grounds.

Historical Liberty Hall Across From Campus

Across from the campus is situated the historical Kean house, Liberty Hall, that was built during the Revolutionary Period. Among the famous statesmen who resided at this home was Alexander Hamilton, the first secretary of the Treasury. John Jay, the First Chief Justice of the Supreme Court took his marriage vows at this site. The school campus was once a part of these historical grounds.

The old buildings that are located on our own land were built by Senator Hamilton F. Kean during the First World War. They are copies of typical Normandy farm buildings. The old library, used by the senator as a law office, is panelled with oak taken from the Shawshank forest in England.

Liberty Hall

Suggested plans for the use of this old building are as a faculty center, graduate library, emergency music room, sorority center, or as general meeting rooms.

The old greenhouse will be repaired for student experimental gardening.

Upper-Quarter Exempted

The State Board also passed a resolution stating that all students in the upper quarter of their high school classes will no longer take the entrance exams given for the college.

The name sign at the new college

The new teachers college in Union will accommodate 1000 day students at its opening. Fourteen new professors will be added to the faculty staff.

Because of the small size of the junior class, there will be room for 320 freshman students in September. After next year, the entering classes will be limited to 250. Between 200 and 300 applicants for entrance next year have already been received.

It is hoped that the state will provide more funds for the construction of additional buildings, so that by 1962 the college will be able to accommodate a total of 3,000 students.

College Chapel

Funds Started

A committee of students and alumni held a meeting last autumn to explore the possibilities of building a memorial chapel bell tower and a set of carillons for the new campus. The chapel services will be for all denominations.

Funds have already been started for this project by the Glee Club and the school bazaar committee.
College Buildings - a Student's Dream; Most Modern on Eastern Seaboard

The buildings at the new campus will make up the most modern college on the Eastern seaboard. The architectural design and the facilities of the educational institution are expressive of and will meet the needs of the young people of today and the future.

An administration-classroom building, a gymnasium, a library, a food service building, and a central heating plant will constitute the five structures planned for use next year. The exterior building material of all the buildings will be brick and aluminum, with wide areas of glass. The buildings will have a type of wall water-proofing. A great deal of aluminum ornamental metals will be used on the outside. Exterior doors and frames at the entrances of aluminum will be provided for the windows. The railings and handrails will be of various designs. About six colors, all glossy, will be seen on the outside of the buildings.

The interiors will be done mostly in wood, marble stone, new constructive metals, ceramic tile, and glass. Various colors being used are deep rust, light rust, yellowish off-white, light yellow-green, deep gray-blue, bright yellow, medium light peach, medium green, yellow tan, light beige, light gray, pale rust, medium gray-blue, and grayed yellow. Among the types of wood to be found will be red cedar, redwood, and red cypress for the floors. Douglas fir, sith spruce, and yellow pine will be used for framing.

Townsend Hall Selected As Name.

Townsend Hall has been selected for the name of the administration-classroom building. The name is in memory of Mr. Townsend, President of Newark State Teachers College in 1930, who contributed much in enlarging the present college from the normal school.

The administration building will be the only structure with two floors. On the outside, around the main entrance and on an adjacent garden wall will be inscribed the name of our new college. Dana College of Education</location>

The administration building will consist of offices, classrooms, and laboratories. In the building there will be approximately twenty-six classrooms, all classes, health, music, gym, visual aid, and library, will be confined here. The wing for the administration and faculty offices will be air-conditioned; conference rooms, a room for research, a recreation room, a civil service lounge, phone booths, and lavatories will also be found in the main section of the building.

The second floor will be the biology, physics, and chemistry labs. Preparation rooms for any science will be available. A special feature of the second floor will be an elementary school laboratory, a lounge and a reception room for the students will be designed for their comfort.

Name Comm. Suggests Dana.

The name of our new college is still officially New Jersey State Teachers College of Union. It has been suggested to name our college, New Jersey State Teachers College of Union, State officials have the opinion that the name of our new campus should be identified with the state rather than with the community.

The college has chosen a committee to name large buildings. They came to the conclusion that general names were more desirable than place names in the title of a school. Among the names which are being considered, the most popular one is "Dana College of Education".

John Cotton Dana is a well-known figure at our school, for he wrote the motto, "Who dares to teach must never cease to learn." Mr. Dana also designed the motto found in the auditorium and the Tudor room. He was a great educator in the Newark area and a foremost librarian of his time.

We will be taking part of Newark students by using John Cotton Dana’s name for our new institution of learning.

Parking for 720; Bike Riding Allowed.

Road construction at the new campus will begin after the completion of the five buildings. It will be directed by the State Highway Department and built by private contractors.

There will be paved roads throughout the campus with a new road constructed into the grounds from Morris Avenue, starting at a point almost opposite the Schering Corp. plant. Parking lots at the college will accommodate 1,000 students - 720 cars. There will be no parking or driving in the courtyards of the students. Smaller parking areas near the main buildings will be available for the faculty members. Bicycles will be permitted on campus by all attending students.

The food service building will be the center of student activities. This view shows part of the cafeteria with beginning wall construction.
Streak at Four!

In a close game played at West Point, N.Y., the Army "B" team knocked off the Rutgers State's basketball team, 77-56.

Newark trailed the Cadets for most of the game, but managed to catch up to tie the score at 28-28. The Army team opened up another slight margin and at half time they held a 37-32 lead. The second half saw the Cadets open with a quick seven points which gave them the lead that they held for the remainder of the game. The 44-32 score, they steadily built up to six points in the last five minutes.

For the sixth time this season, the Statesmen had the edge from floor to free throw line and in the field goal department. Every man on our winning team took part in the scoring.

Recent Intramural Basketball

By Lenny Bornstein

Player of the Week

by the Editors

The Black Knights of Newark State extended their winning streak to four games by thumping Concordia by a lopsided 82-46 score. This was a result of the fact that Concordia handed Newark earlier in the season.

The rejuvenated State squad, in establishing their longest winning streak of the year, also turned in their third straight romp. The Knights opened with a 12-0 lead and never let it drop below 35-5. At halftime the game seemed a mockery as the score stood 49-11.

Unfortunately, the score made Concordia fans to be a much poorer team than they really are. Arriving after a long ride, and playing in front of an inferior crowd, their performance was instrumental in the terrible showing that the losers made. Starting up this point is the fact that Concordia managed to come within 4 points of Newark's lead.

The Knights were back in the game after a strong charge which came from the bench.

Capt. Hank Kobik

This week the personage of Hank Kobik steps into our magic circle to be heralded as Player of the Week.

Hank, a 6'2" one hundred and fifty pounder, in addition to having the distinction of being the only senior member of this year's team, is also varsity team captain. A graduate of Ferri High in Jersey City, Kobik entered N.S.T.C., as an Industrial Arts major in 1953. After first playing on JV ball earlier in college, Hank came up to the varsity last season.

Mr. Kobik is probably one of the most improved players on the squad. He is presently enjoying a fine season. His play is a direct result of his rebounding and his scoring better than average. At the present Hank is averaging about 13 points per game.

Our hope goes to Hank this week for his standout performance against New Brunswick State. Kosik had 24 for the varsity, his 40th high this season, 91-68. Kobik threw in twenty-one points to lead Newark's scoring and also to give him his high one game total for the season. In addition to his scoring, Hank's rebounding was also instrumental in securing the victory.

State Romps

by Frank Bruchman

Newark State romped to its second straight victory with a resounding 81-31 win over New Brunswick Seminary. The game was played on the Rutgers University campus in New Brunswick.

Although Seminary put up a valiant attempt, they never got close enough to make a serious challenge to gain the win. Newark pulled out ahead by opening minutes and was never caught up to. The victors led in both defensive and offensive, free throws and field goals.

The score, however, is not indicative of the type of game that Newark played. It was not a good team ballgame which resulted in shooting and hurried shots accounted for a large percentage of the total. It appears that although the team has relatively good height, fast man play and the ability to shoot accurately, the neglect to set up plays, poor passes, and ineffective play has been a drawback to the team as a whole. There are many who were gratified for contributing one of the brighter aspects of the game.

Newark State's high scorer for the year is as follows: a game with Paterson at home on March 14; a game against Princeton on March 16; and the New Jersey Federation of College Women at Glassboro, March 16; and will conclude the season with a playoff at Jersey City, March 21.
