Johnson Announces New Registration Procedure

by Cynthia Judson '63

In order to eliminate some of the confusion which had surrounded former top quarter students from the college entrance examination. This

1. Pick up a yellow registration card in the Registrar's office.
2. Fill out that registration card, listing all of the subjects and number of credits.
3. Make an appointment with your faculty counselor prior to Feb 1, 1960, in order to sign off son, indicating very briefly their first choice of program.

In that interval between now and the Christmas holidays, final registration instructions and time and course sheets will be sent out, and each student is to go ahead and make up their possible schedules on his own, indicating very briefly their first choice of program.

Before coming to registration, each student should fill in and send the course and the section numbers of their first program choice on the yellow card.

In that interval between now and the Christmas holidays, final registration instructions and time and course sheets will be sent out, and each student is to go ahead and make up their possible schedules on his own, indicating very briefly their first choice of program.

In that interval between now and the Christmas holidays, final registration instructions and time and course sheets will be sent out, and each student is to go ahead and make up their possible schedules on his own, indicating very briefly their first choice of program. Each student will be assigned an alternate schedule if the first choice is not available, the student will be advised of the alternate schedule, if it exists. If this is not possible, students will be able to sign up for a second class, where the cards will be pulled for all of the courses listed on the yellow card. The student will be advised of the alternate schedule if it exists.

If the classes are still not available, the student will be referred to a problem desk where staff members will help him make up a new schedule.

This new method of registration is an attempt to provide a more personalized approach to registration for students with special problems. It also relieves the faculty of being overly reduced on a clerical operation.

Final registration day will be February 2 for Sophomores; February 3 for Juniors; February 10 for Sophomores and February 3 for Freshmen. The definite times for reporting for registration have not been decided upon as yet.

It's High Time - Again

To put it bluntly at the outset of this editorial, the REFLECTOR, hoping it speaks for the student body, respectfully requests the administration to permit student members on the Curriculum Planning Committee.

Readers of last year’s REFLECTOR know that this is not the first time such a request has been necessary, and in light of the last time it is necessary, but, being realistic creatures, we know it will not be.

There seems to be a prevalent attitude in this school that the students are not capable of being intelligent members of society. On the other hand, we have been told to dress ourselves as intelligent members of society, and the next time we come being “intelligent,” “and ‘good teachers’ and ‘becoming well-rounded individuals!”, all based on the assumption that students are, occasionally, intelligent; but when it comes to giving them a chance to display their educated well-roundednesses where it really counts, they are not considered. When it comes to subjects as important as who-is-going-to-teach-them-what-and-why, the attitude toward us is, “what do they know of it, they are incompetent. Humbling children. They are no longer adults. In the space of two sentences, tomorrow (some of them are teachers of next month) into the idlots of today.

Oh come now! Can anyone of the administration seriously believe that in a body of 1200 students, many of them married, a large portion of them but three weeks away from being teachers, some of them, however, who are the better candidates, we need not pull them up. We would vote the curious committee: we don’t want to. But we do want to be heard on them.

In other words, we find that the committees require more than more invitation to attend them. Persons to fill such spots should be selected by the student body. Invitations are about as successful as Hanni­to make the following response to a letter written by Andrea “Come Sunday,” she realized against them. He was denounced from the pulpit, press and in the discussion of the list of candidates, opposition to the admittance of any...,

The administration of Newark State College is a good one in a number of ways. There is no other teacher’s college in the state which would allow a group of students such freedom and leeway as has been permitted by the REFLECTOR. But in failing to permit students to be heard on the administration of the college, the administration has opened itself to criticisms which may well obscure the good intentions and actions.

Dear Sir:

Your statement has been asked by the Executive Council of Kappa Delta Pi to make the following response to a letter written by Andrea “Come Sunday,” she realized against them. Is Judge Leibowitz Right?

Judge Samuel Leibowitz recently was soundly criticized for his statement that New York should discourage immigrants. This according to Harper’s “Marriage”... naturally scandalized the politicos, alien landlord and a good manyNegroes and Puerto Ricans who thought (mistakenly) that the judge was acting for discrimination against them. He was denounced from the pulpit, press and in the U.S. Senate.

I believe along with many that New York is a stricken city and can no longer welcome with open arms new immigration waves. New York has a number of social, economic and political problems that are of growing and going unsolved day by day. The city has a housing, school, water supply, police and hospital problem. The city’s only hope is to stem the tide of immigration until it can provide the necessary education, medical and other services. According to Harper’s “Puerto Ricans and Negroes—nearly 650,000 of them—have poured into the city since 1850. As a result 79 percent of the school seats in Manhattan are occupied by Puerto Ricans. A quarter of the city’s elementary school pupils speak no English at all. As a result the students speak English at home and in school, Puerto Ricans. These two groups alone share the city’s 175 million annual expenditure for education.

The Warm Peninsula

This seems to be the student’s day for asking women who take young lovers. Just look at Sweet Bird of Youth, A Loss of Roses, and this week’s entry: The Warm Peninsula. Now comes a question: which is more important, the play or the performances?

The Warm Peninsula has a marvelous cast. Julie Harris gives a moving rendition of Ruth Arnold, an inexperienced girl who meets up with Joanne de Lynn (June Havoc), an aging, devoted grandmother, who receives a ten thousand dollar insurance premium. For her son, this means a chance to be a partner in a not-yet-established liquor store. Her daughter wants the money for her medical school education. She finally gives the money to her son who places as much of it in the hands of his friend, who subsequently deserts him. The remainder of the plot is devoted to the efforts of Leibowitz, the son of Mr. Younger, is written, with a feeling character from his last year’s rendition of “Little Quiet” in Jamaica. He is 27 and has just returned from a sojourn of study in Europe. He is a slightly different from the traditional night-club performer. He is a living blues and jazz singer. Because of her deep faith, however, she has repeatedly turned down recording contracts, refusing to 'sing the blues.'

Upon being shown the score for "Come Sunday," she realized that, no matter how closely associated with jazz it might be, this was something that she had to do. She asked the composer to point the point of humming an extra note, a note not in the key signature, to bring the note up to 60 notes of her performance, and waiting deliciously in suspension. The work is divided into six sections. Part one opens with the somber, sorrowful character of the work song, followed by a passionate and intense blues sax, trumpet and trombone, (Continued on Page 3)

ing is one that has artistic value because of the fluidity with which it is written. The Japanese calligraphy relates to certain styles of contemporary painting. Abstract expressionists in this country and action painter in Europe put much meaning and emphasis on the spontan-tous brush work and the fluidity of line. In a way this exhibition is especially appreciated by people who are interested in the power or the delicacy of a stroke to suggest emotion.

S. B. T. Giving Orphans Party

The forever active SGT of the Xmas Committee is putting on a gala charity party for the orphans of the St. Mary's orphanage. The event will be held on December 16 in the Coliseum.

Richard Hanchett, transport chairman, has gathered a group of fellows to transport the children to and from the college. The party will run from 5-10 P.M. Bruce Williams has arranged that a supply of hot dogs, ice cream sundaes and oranges from Ford will be "goodies" on hand to help fill those hours. WatTom Roten has arranged a host of games to be played. Comedy films will be shown. Bill Boett and George Huda, most important will be the appearance of Santa Claus (Al Neis).

Applications Doubling

Applications for next year's Freshman class are now coming in at a different rate as the result of a change of selection procedures. In a time which was as high as 1958, this number has been doubled in the past year. There are now about 250 openings for the incoming freshman, while the present class consists of only 285 members. Because of the number of applications received so far, it is planned that the new class will be of the same caliber as the Class of '58.

New additions to the curriculum program, including Secondary Art and Recreation Education mutain for the group's entertainment needs for those considering our college.

On December 15, Mrs. Willy Lay will present to subscribers at the Sheilds Hall, to an hour which is not otherwise defined, a show of the picture of life on science in the modern world. Mr. Lay is a world authority on rockets and is the author of a book called "Space Travel." The lecture begins at noon. Single tickets will be available at the door or in the public relations office.

Squires Bow To Deacons
Drop Second In As Many Starts
by Pierre Guarino

On Saturday December 5, N.J.C. lost its home opener to Bloomfield College, 62-44, It was the Squires' second defeat in as many starts.

The Squires again battled their opponents point for point in the early minutes of the game and, at one time held a 14-13 lead. At this point however, Bloomfield, behind a three-pointer by a substitute, tore through the Squires defense and, at one time, held a 14-13 lead. At this point, Bloomfield's bench came through with a 17 point surge to obtain a commanding 30-14 lead.

Not until the final minutes of the first half did the Squires make any impression. At halftime the Squires trailed 35-21. From this point on they did not come close, losing 76-44, the largest margin of defeat suffered by the Squires this season.

The Squires again battled their opponents point for point in the second half, but were unable to mount a comeback. At the final buzzer, Bloomfield had won in a landslide, 76-44.

Manny Working Out
by Art Weinfield, co-editor

From the looks of the squad thus far, it appears that the return of this strong and capable veteran of the court would bolster considerably. His fine play could do nothing but improve the squad, and since it appears that there is great need we urge our college to support the team in its return to the ice.

Manny is a graduate of Newark's East Side High School, where he站立ed in basketball and baseball. Potentially the greatest Newark State athlete ever, Manny made All Essex County in football while at East Side, and All-City in basketball and baseball. Last year here at Newark State, he averaged 19.7 points a game and led the conference in rebounding. He, along with Jack Mott, was one of the best players in the conference. His return this season should make the team a formidable force.

When the season gets in full swing, starting on January 3, Manny's presence would provide for a definite winning season, and possibly a superior season. One could never know how the difference of one player, with Manny's ability, could cause a decided change in the kind of basketball team we have. Rebounding and scoring ability are nine-tenths of a basketball team, and this fine athlete possesses both.

Don't Buy Skates For Your Feet...Buy Them For Your Car.

Ice Skating Anyone? by Richie Marasco, co-editor

Thirsty Tuesday. sHowing through the courtesy of the experts on school parking, Mr. Brilliante and Dr. Samenfeld, the students of Newark State were given first hand experience in annual winter treats. The treat was in the form of a bowling party offered as part of what students get for paying $1.00 for parking privileges. The skating area was practically the entire parking lot which was covered with a sheet of beautiful clear ice that would have made Barbara Ann Scott do flips. (Miss Scott being the reknowned U.S. Skating Champ.) As fate would have it, the skating party was a flop. Being uninformerd prior to Tuesday morning most Newark State students left their skates at home. This being the case most of the ice action was limited to slipping and falling students, and to cars crashing (one known accident re­

State College Bowling Tournament

Newark State College will act as host in the first State College Bowling Tournament to be held on March 10, 1960. The site of the tournament has yet to be decided.

A meeting of all State Colleges was held at Montclair in November, at which time proposals were introduced for the tournament. It was planned that each team will be composed of six members of nine games will be played by each team, the first three will decide a team champion, the next three a doubles champion, and the last three a singles champion.

Both brackets will be handled by Newark State since there are no full-time employees to handle the operation.

The tentative date for the tournament has been set for the first Saturday in March.
